WOODROW WILSON IS DYING

OFFICIAL NOT WILLING TO REMAIN IN SERVICE

Declares Present Conditions Of Organization Cause Him to Take Action

W. A. Horn, member of the City Council, well known realtor and prominent in civic affairs, today tendered his resignation as councilman, effective immediately.

Councilman Horn, in his letter of resignation, declares that his action is the result of his unwillingness to "assume any further responsibility of said position under the present organization and conditions."

Assistant City Attorney Leslie Tarr stated that the vacancy left by Mr. Horn's resignation would be filled by a majority of the remaining members of the City Council, as provided for in Section 13 of Article 6 of the Glendale city charter.

Councilman Asa Hall, who has been closely associated with Mr. Horn in his work on the City Council, in a statement to The Glendale Evening News, declared that "it is not my intention to follow the example of my colleague and resign at this time."

Mr. Horn and Mr. Hall last year took office at the same time, both running on a like platform. They have, however, many times differed in their view and vote on official matters.

Copy of Resignation
When V. B. Stone was chosen city manager yesterday, neither Mr. Horn nor Mr. Hall voted for him or for the resolution declaring the appointment a temporary one. They declared, however, that they held nothing against him personally, taking the view that (Continued on Page 2)

Former Cabinet Members Employed As Counsel For Doheny Interests, Claim

BULLETIN
WASHINGTON, Feb. 1.—"If William G. McAdoo has been paid $250,000 by the Doheny oil interests, it puts him out of the running for the presidency," it was declared on the floor of the House this afternoon by Representative Blanton, Democrat, of Texas, during debate on the oil leasing scandals.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1.—A new sensation was sprung this afternoon in the naval oil scandal when E. L. Doheny, multi-millionaire oil king, revealed he had employed on a wholesale scale ex-members of presidential cabinets to act as counsel for his various oil interests.

While the committee room sat stunned, Doheny calmly recited how he had employed William G. McAdoo, former secretary of the treasury; Thomas W. Gregory, former attorney general; Franklin K. Lane, former secretary of the interior; and Lindley M. Garrison, former secretary of war.

Doheny's statement that he had employed Gregory probably will force President Coolidge to withdraw his name as special government counsel in the pending investigation into the naval oil leases, it was believed. Doheny said he had employed Gregory to represent his company's interests in "seeking to get justice in Mexican matters." This revelation came as a decided shock to the committee.

McAdoo, the witness said, was still in his employ at a salary of $50,000 a year, and that the candidate for the Democratic nomination had been paid $250,000 to date.

McAdoo's work, he said, was the same as Gregory's, "to get justice for me in Mexican matters." Doheny denied, however, that he had employed any of the men named "while they were in the cabinet."

JUNIOR HIGH FORMATION IS UNDER INQUIRY

Trustees Seek to Learn Wishes of Boards In Adjoining Territory

Pursuant to the provisions of a resolution unanimously adopted at a meeting of the Glendale city Board of Education and the Boards of Trustees of Eagle Rock, La Crescenta, Tujunga and Monte Vista districts, held December 12, 1922, the members of the Board of Trustees of the Glendale Union High school present at an adjourned meeting held last night voted unanimously to ask these boards for their opinion as to the formation of a Junior High school district.

The members present and voting were President H. W. Yarrick, Albert D. Pearce, A. W. Tower and Dr. H. G. Brown. The absent member was T. D. Watson.

The resolution, adopted at the joint meeting fourteen months ago, which prompted the action, read as follows:

"Resolved that it be the sense of this meeting that we recommend that at such time as the present high school buildings are available the Board of Trustees of the Glendale Union High school district call a mass meeting for the purpose of instructing them to call a bond election for raising funds to erect Junior High schools in the following places: Tujunga, La Crescenta, Eagle Rock and the Northwest section of Glendale; and we further recommend that when the proper time arrives the Board of Trustees of the Glendale Union High school arrange to inaugurate a Junior High school system covering the present Glendale Union High school district."

Seek Legal Steps
Principal George U. Moyse was instructed to get an opinion from the County Council relative to the legal steps necessary to form such a district, and the council's recommendation will be embodied in a letter which is to be sent out to the various boards concerned. Eagle Rock is no longer in the picture. (Continued on page 4)

V. B. STONE IS NOW ACTING AS CITY'S MANAGER

New Official Takes Over Office; Makes Statement Regarding Policies

V. B. Stone, appointed city manager yesterday by a three to two vote of the City Council, was at his desk bright and early this morning, familiarizing himself with the routine of his new duties.

Mr. Stone, although present at the meeting of the council yesterday, left before his appointment was announced, and was not aware of the fact by Mayor Spencer Robinson when the two of them met late in the afternoon on the street. He lost no time this morning with formalities, but plunged into the work on hand.

Promises Best Efforts

"As far as the resolution passed declaring the appointment only a temporary one goes," said Mr. Stone to a representative of The Evening News this morning, "I have put that out of my mind. If I am in here one day, one month or one year I intend to give the city of Glendale my best efforts, the same as I did when engaged in right of way work in the engineering department. If the appointment had been unanimous I would have to make good to hold down the position, and I figure that I have that to do in any case. 'I feel that the knowledge of local conditions which I have gained during my past experience in the city's employ will be of great assistance to me in this new position, and intend to apply myself to the best of my ability.'"

Receives Congratulations

"Practically all the heads of departments have been in this morning congratulating me, and I am sure that there will be no friction between them and the new city manager."

Volume of legitimate business done by any institution, whether it be bank, mercantile house, or newspaper, determines the activity of that concern.

The advertisers of Glendale and vicinity for the month of January said by their patronage, as they have said in all past months, that The Evening News is the greatest business-getter for them in Glendale.

The Evening News, without any connection with a Los Angeles newspaper, is placed in the homes of residents of this community.

The business-getting power of the advertisements in The Evening News is not lessened by advertisements of similar character of Los Angeles stores appearing in an attached Los Angeles newspaper.

EX-PRESIDENT GRADUALLY SINKING AS PHYSICIANS STRIVE TO HALT END

'I Am Ready to Go,' Says Former Executive; Wife At His Bedside

BULLETIN
WASHINGTON, Feb. 1.—Dr. Cary T. Grayson issued the following bulletin at 4:20 p. m. on the condition of Ex-President Wilson: "Mr. Wilson's condition is practically unchanged. During the day he has had some sleep and took a little nourishment. He is resting comfortably but his vitality is very low. All we can do is hope for the best."

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1.—Woodrow Wilson, former president of the United States, was near death this afternoon but tenaciously clinging to the slender thread of life.

Shortly before 1 p. m., while watchers around his bedside expected his death at almost any hour, the ex-president fell in a deep sleep, the first he has had in more than twenty-four hours, and it so cheered his physicians that they declared it might possibly mark a turning point in his condition.

Mr. Wilson had a "crash" during the night, according to one of the physicians.

Asked directly whether by "crash" it was meant another stroke, such as the former president suffered during his White House illness, the physician only shook his head tearfully and did not answer, but went immediately back into the house.

Admiral Cary T. Grayson, chief of the attending physicians, left the house at 1 p. m. to take a short walk to get some air. He was haggard and worn from twenty-four hours in the sick room without sleep.

Holds Out Hope
"He has just dropped off to sleep," Dr. Grayson said. "It may be there is hope. If it is, it may mark a turning point."

The other physicians, Drs. H. A. Fowlie and Sterling Ruffin, both specialists, had left the house shortly before, and Dr. Grayson's departure left only the nurse and Mrs. Wilson with the former president. Grayson, however, planned to be absent only a short time.

The former president's condition at 11 o'clock was said to be such that the end might come any time. He was weak and growing weaker, although his physicians said he was "fighting bravely."

"In Worse Shape"
Those who saw him during the long illness at the White House, when he was almost continuously at the point of death, said he was in "worse shape" now than then.

Oxygen and stimulants were administered to Mr. Wilson early this afternoon in a frantic effort to prolong his life.

When he had concluded an examination of the former president this morning, Admiral Grayson said: "Mr. Wilson passed a very restless night and lost strength. I regard his condition as serious. His condition has suddenly taken a turn for the worse."

Notify Family
The seriousness of the ex-president's condition, which was further manifested by the fact that members of his immediate family were notified this morning of his condition by Mrs. Wilson. (Continued on Page 8)

Resignation Presented By Councilman Horn

a candidate for the position should not receive the temporary appointment while a candidate for the permanent position.

Here is Mr. Horn's resignation, a copy of which was given by him to The Glendale Evening News:

"Glendale, Cal., Feb. 1, 1924.
To the City of Glendale, Cal.
"I hereby tender you my resignation as a member of the City Council, to take effect at once.

"This action has become necessary because I am not willing to assume any further responsibility of said position under the present organization and conditions.

"You having elected me to this position of responsibility and honor, I want to thank you for the faith and confidence thus placed in me, and I am sorry that it has become necessary for me to take this action.

"Very sincerely yours,
"W. A. HORN."

Mr. Horn's resignation will, it is stated, be acted on at an early meeting of the City Council.

Mr. Horn firmly refused to elaborate on the reasons which have impelled him to take the course he has done.

During his term of office Mr.
Horn declared that he has attended faithfully at all the meetings of the council and of the various committees to which he was appointed, and has endeavored, to the limit of his ability, to serve the people of Glendale
who elected him to the office.

It is generally agreed that Mr.
Horn has proven a popular and efficient official, and his resignation comes as a great surprise.
Councilman C. E. Kimlin, when informed by a representative of The Evening News of Mr. Horn's resignation, stated it was the first intimation he had received of his associate's action, and had no comment to make.

"It is news to me," said Mr.
Kimlin, "and I have no knowledge of the affair, whatsoever. I have no comment to make."

The resignation also proved a surprise to Mayor Spencer Room-son, who lives at his home, but his wife conveyed the news.

Councilman Sam Davis went to Los Angeles this morning and had not returned home early this afternoon.

Social Events*School Affairs

The last week of the semester was marked at the Acadia street school by the exchange of a number of little social courtesies which speak well for the harmonious feeling existing between teachers and pupils, and the interest and cooperation of parents of this school.

One of the delightful events of the week was the surprise luncheon, planned, prepared and served on Thursday by the A 6th grade girls to the teachers of the school.
Miss May Cornwell, the principal,
and Miss Daisy Kearns, their class teacher, were the surprised members of the faculty.

A large table prettily decorated, flowers and place cards carrying out a yellow and white color scheme, was laid in the kindergarten room and a most appetizing luncheon was served by the capable A 6 girls. A corsage bouquet was presented to each guest.

The teachers entertained were:
Miss May Cornwell, principal;

A brilliant future has been pic-musicians who have heard her,

and last night she demonstrated her wonderful talent by giving a group of three pianologues, which she arranged herself. She gave sic by Stephen Heller; "Teeny Weeny," words by Eugene Field club of 300 in Los Angeles, invited Jane to give a program for them.

Other numbers on the program and a talk by Mrs. Neth to the 100 women and girls present.

Judge of State Supreme Court Sounds Patriotic Note In Legal Decision

In one of the most important decisions handed down by the State Supreme Court of California, Justice Thomas J. Lennon has written a brief on patriotism that is being pointed to with great pride by the members of the American Legion.

The brief on patriotism is included in the decision concerning the erection of a memorial hall for veterans' organizations to the extent that it would serve as a stimulus to patriotism, would be a public purpose.

The question arose in a recent case in Los Angeles county where an appropriation of $500,000 had been made by the Board of Supervisors and the county auditor held up payment until the constitutionality of the appropriation was decided.

Justifies Expenditure

Justice Lennon says in the decision affirming the right of the supervisors to have made the gift: "The promotion and promulgation of patriotism upon which the state must rely for its own self-preservation is in truth and in fact a good consideration for the thing granted by the state and justifies the extending the bounty of the state. "In its dedication of the use of the building to associations of veterans the state is not looking toward the past but to the future. It is not for past services rendered that the proposed building is dedicated to the use of those who served their country but for the services to be rendered by them to the state in the future by keeping alive and fostering that spirit of patriotism which actuated them when they offered their all even unto the last full measure of devotion for the perpetuation of the ideals and institutions for which this nation stands.

"Patriotism involves not only a love for a particular state, but for the whole United States—the individual profit and glory of each state is, in a manner of speaking, the community property of the nation at large."

Need Veteran Committee Congressional action to alleviate the problems of the World War and other American veterans is being almost fatally hindered by lack of a House and Senate committee devoted only to such problems, according to word received by Morgan Keaton, state adjutant of California American Legion posts, from Washington, D. C.

Representative Lamar Jeffers of Alabama, who is advocating immediate appointment of the committees, with the understanding that they, instead of sundry committees on other specialized subjects, have the reporting of all bills pertaining to former soldiers, sailors and marines, is in communication with Legion officials throughout the country to ask for aid in his efforts.

Many of the congressmen have committed themselves to a policy of priority for matters affecting disabled veterans. Congressman Jeffers said in his address to the house, but the program apparently blocked long after Congress had opened its session.

"It looks as if those in charge of the program in the House intend to carry out the idea of 'priority for the disabled' whenever they get around to it even though so many members have declared their intention to work for such priority," declared Mr. Jeffers. "If the idea of priority for the disabled had been carried out conscientiously," he continued, "the formation of this new committee would have been one of the first acts of Congress, following action taken in the caucus when it was agreed that such a committee would be formed. This amounts to needless and indefensible delay."

The American Legion's citizenship campaign has taken on such importance that State Commander James F. Collins of Long Beach has summoned State Adjutant Morgan Keaton to the south for a three-day conference.

The campaign of education in citizenship, the most ambitious of its kind ever undertaken by any California organization, is underway in all parts of the state.

Civic, labor, fraternal and religious organizations have gotten behind the Legion's efforts wholeheartedly and the ex-service men hope to arouse public conscience to act as never before in the matter of better citizenship.

Poet, Age 4 Years, Pens Lines For 'Safety First'

The latest issue of publicity matter by the National Safety Council, with headquarters at 168 North Michigan avenue, Chicago, contains a poem credited to Glen Erle Forbes, a 4-year-old boy of Los Angeles, in which Glendale receives favorable mention.

The magazine, devoted to the "Safety First" idea, a copy of which was received by Mayor Spencer Robinson this morning, has a wide circulation, and the poem, written as it is by a child, will attract universal attention. The poem follows:

I eat hen's eggs to give me strength,
I drink goat's milk for gall,
I live in Glendale, California,
Because it suits, that's all.

I work with safety on my mind,
It's so with all my kin,
And when but one day old—hear me—
I wore a safety pin.

Nana King Custer Heads Body Affiliated With Masonic Order

Sixty charter members, Master Masons, their mothers, wives and daughters, met last night at Hahn's auditorium, to institute the Ionic Court of the Amaranths, an organization affiliated with the Masonic order. The installation ceremonies were conducted by the officers of the Grand Court, who came to Glendale especially for the occasion, as did also about three hundred members of the order from various cities of California.

Mrs. Irene Ford of Alhambra, grand royal matron of California, conducted the installation, and the following officers took their posts in the new organization: Mrs. Nana King Custer, royal matron; D. Ripley Jackson, royal patron; Mrs. Gertrude E. Baldwin, honored associate matron; Mark T. Lee, associate royal patron; Mrs. Maude Evans, honored conductress; Mrs. Grace A. The new court, which was named "Ionic" in honor of Mrs. Ford, the grand royal matron, will hold its meetings in Hahn's auditorium on the second and fourth Thursday of each month, and it is planned by the members to hold a series of important meetings that will have, for their principal aim, the strengthening of the court, and the development of the patriotic and social ideals for which it stands.

The organization is limited to Master Masons, their mothers, wives and daughters, and it is predicted that recruits to its membership will be, gathered in large numbers.

Industrial Plants As Commercial Assets

The most vital factor in the upbuilding of this particular section of Southern California is its ability to acquire more Industrial Plants that have permanent pay-rolls and produce commodities of a character that find ready markets. The City of Glendale and the San Fernando Valley are better adapted for this particular purpose than any other section, and there is little question that when these facts become thoroughly understood by the people generally that their thoughts will be turned toward these channels for investment purposes. The investment of money in institutions of this sort is the safest and sanest way of employing funds to insure a conservative earning capacity, with the added assurance that the particular plant or industry will also be building up automatically a surplus that will greatly enhance the value of the investment. In this connection there should be unselfish thought as well as business judgment, because the realization should come that every dollar invested is helping to build the community and add to the general valuation of the city's assets.

You have all heard about COMALT and the other products of the S. W. BROWN CO., INC., which is now succeeded by the COMALT CO., INC.

Until quite recently the capitalization of the old company was on a basis that was consistent with the business, but not large enough to handle the tremendously increased business that has come since COMALT was put before the public.

During the last three months the business of the company has increased to the point where it has become absolutely necessary that more capital be available for expansion purposes, and for this reason the old corporation was retired and succeeded by the COMALT CO., INC.

All the original stockholders still retain their holdings and enough new ones will be secured to make available sufficient capital to put the company in position to handle the immense new volume of business adequately.

COMALT was put before the trade purely on merit and met with an immediate 100% response, the result of which is that the COMALT CO., INC., has on hand at this moment contracts aggregating several hundred thousand gallons of syrup, which will result in an excellent profit to the company and consequently to the stockholders.

The COMALT CO., INC., owns and controls plant, buildings, machinery, formulas, processes and all U. S. rights, which are being handled solely under FRANCHISE under the supervision of this company, so that COMALT, wherever used or sold, is always under the direct handling and processes of the company.

The COMALT company comes to you, not as a company seeking a market for a product, but as a company seeking additional working capital to handle the business already in existence, and take care of the future.

Demand for COMALT is nation-wide, as the syrup form in which it is made makes it easy of handling and transport, and the syrup is not affected by climatic conditions.

Officers of the

F. M. BROOKS

O. M. CLINTON
Director

All the officers and directors are men active in the business life of Glendale and Los Angeles, and their association is very valuable, as they are taking a keen interest in progress and development, and devoting their thought to the building up of the business.

PROFITS—The average profit per gallon of COMALT syrup to the company is very liberal, even when the present high cost of materials is used in figuring.

CONSUMPTION—America is essentially a soft drink consuming country, and the rest of the world is rapidly falling in line. The soda fountain is now an institution where trade is good, profits are large, and consumption steady. COMALT, in addition to being a fountain drink served hot or cold, is the first compound that can be used in the home by the simple addition of water, hot or cold.

From the above you will see what an attractive investment COMALT is offering you with the added fact that this is a GLENDALE business that means expansion and added growth to the city.

A small amount of stock is being offered to the public at the par value of $10.00 per share, and the sale is BY THE COMPANY, FOR THE SOLE BENEFIT OF THE COMPANY—NO PROMOTION STOCK—and every dollar accruing to the benefit of the company for business purposes. Stock is sold on terms if desired.

Commercial investments of this character are safe, sane and have a good earning capacity in an existing plant with tangible assets and an established reputation.

Quick Sale Follows Listing of Property

The working of the listing system adopted by the Glendale Realty Board and that went into effect this morning was shown in the quick disposition of a lot that was listed by Peter Hanson, the president of the board. The property was listed at 9 a. m. and by 10 a. m. it had been sold through Mr. Hanson.

Other pieces of property that are being bulletined to members of the association will, it is freely predicted, yield to the same high pressure selling methods as were used to sell the first piece of property listed.

longer in the district. "We are simply calling this matter to their attention," said President Yarrick, "in compliance with their request. We do not wish it to be understood that we are endeavoring to force a Junior High school district upon the people whether they wish it or not. We are going to find out what steps are necessary and then put the matter up to them. If they want it we will co-operate to the fullest extent with them."

Discuss Project
The proposition of using the Harvard street building as a Junior High and bringing the pupils from an outlying district to school in motor busses was discussed, but no definite action taken.

The formation of the Junior High school as under investigation by the Glendale Union High school board would result in the High school board retaining office and continuing to administer High school affairs.

Should it, however, be decided, after investigation, to adopt the consolidation plan, then the High school board would be abolished and the city Board of Education take full charge of both Grammar and High school systems.

The High school board is especially desirous of getting an opinion regarding the disposition of any school building which might be erected in the outlying section provided that section later withdrew from the union district.

If an expression of opinion can be received from the County Council today, the letters, which have been drafted in the rough, will be sent out the first of the week to the different boards.

No Need to Rush
"There are many things to be worked out in this connection," said Mr. Pearce last night, "and nothing may come of it. A year ago last December they were evidently in favor of it and asked us to communicate with them when the proper time arrived. With the Harvard street school now available we believe the time has arrived. There is no great hurry in the matter."

The High school board, it was evident from last night's meeting, takes the position that all methods of furthering the school system should be thoroughly investigated and any attempt to rush through a pre-arranged plan frowned upon.

It is understood that the financial angles in connection with the different projects will be gone into very thoroughly.

Plans for the formal opening of the new plant on East Broadway were discussed. The tentative date has been set for the latter part of February, when many noted California educators will be present.

Bears Put Railway Signal Man to Rout

LEWISTOWN, Pa., Feb. 1.—Cecil E. Bell, block-operator at a lonely railroad station near here, one dark night recently received orders for a freight due at his station within a few minutes. He stepped out to await the arrival of the train and literally walked into the arms of two huge black bears, who made affectionate advances. Bell didn't even take a second look, but leaped back into the tower. The freight was soon within a short distance, when the engineer tooted the whistle. The bears fled panic stricken into the woods; Bell gingerly delivered the orders and fairly flew back into the tower.

Wallpaper Covers Up Bootlegger's Cache

ELYRIA, Ohio, Feb. 1.—Wallpaper was used in concealing the entrance to an attic, where, it is claimed, a large liquor cache was hidden. As a result police were fooled for many months. But they finally noted that Elbert Jordan had failed to paper over the hole in the wall from which booze was siphoned from a five-gallon jug through a rubber hose down a partition. Jordan was placed under $1,000 bond pending trial on a charge of violating the dry laws.

HEARD LINCOLN SPEAK

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 1.—General Norton P. Chipman, who sat on the platform when Lincoln delivered his Gettysburg address, died here today. He was 86 years old. Chipman served as secretary of the District of Columbia in 1871 and came to California in 1885.

GOES ON LONG SKATE

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 1.—To settle a wager, Dana Floyd Fuller, Stanford university student, will start tonight in an attempt to roller-skate to San Jose, fifty-two miles distant, in twenty-four hours.

MILLION IS NOT MUCH

Atoms, as used in the scientific world are so small that 1,000,000 of them placed side by side would not measure so much as the thickness of an ordinary piece of paper. Scientists agree that it is something to be computed, rather than imagined, as it isn't easy to imagine a million of anything.

V. B. Stone Assumes Position as Manager

Horn refused to vote for Mr. Stone on the ground that he was a candidate for the position and they thought it unfair to the other candidates to place him in the position, as long as the majority voting for him regarded it as a temporary appointment. Both stated they had nothing against Mr. Stone personally.

Born in Ohio

Born June 20, 1879 at Chillicothe, Ohio, Virgil B. Stone received his early education in the high school of that city, completing a four year scientific course. He completed his technical education in the University of Missouri where he also taught two years as student assistant. On leaving college he accepted a position in the engineering department of World's Fair in St. Louis, later being connected with the engineering department of the Illinois Central railway.

In succession he held positions in the chief engineer's office of the Frisco system at St. Louis, and Memphis, Tennessee, being office engineer at the latter city. He was chief draftsman for the Kansas City, St. Louis and Colorado railway at St. Louis; and has had wide experience in the engineering phase of mining and engineering work in Colorado, being connected with the Anamur Power and Water company, hydro-electric plant at Durango and the Montezuma Valley irrigation district system. He was assistant to A. F. Parker, city engineer of Ogden, Utah.

Assistant to Manager

From 1906 to 1910, Mr. Stone was with the Henderson Engineering Company, and from 1910 to 1920 was assistant to the general manager of the various light, power, heat and water companies, later merged into the North Missouri Power company, in charge of public relations, publicity, franchises, rights of way and power line constructions, at the same time being president of the Hamilton Light and Power company and a director in the Wanda corporation, holding company for all the real estate owned by the Dr. Bell interests from New York to Colorado.

Mr. Stone came to Glendale in January of 1921, and has been connected with the city engineer's office continuously since that time in charge of opening and widening proceedings and all right of way work. Some of his best known achievements in this direction are the straightening out of the ten year old tangle over the right of way of West Broadway, from Columbus to San Fernando road; clearing the Torrens titles to Sycamore Canyon road, and the amicable adjustment of the dispute between the residents of Dixon and Lafayette streets over rights of way.

It was largely due to Mr. Stone's efforts that the Glen Oaks syndicate dedicated the city a park in School canyon. He obtained all the right of way for the main outfall sewer from Aviation Drive to Sixth street in Long Angeles.

He is a member of Glendale Commandery No. 53, Knights Templar; Glendale Shrine Club; Al Melakah Temple, Los An-

Ferber's

Miss Belle Hudson has been secured by Ferber's to act as model every Saturday afternoon and evening, wearing the newest spring creations and appearing in the large front display windows of Ferber's.

Miss Hudson recently won a beauty contest at Venice. She has acted as model for Joseph Eliason, motion picture director, in his fashion revues. Thursday evening of this week she was model in a $100,000 fashion revue at the Santa Monica Bay Woman's clubhouse.

Miss Hudson will also appear on the stage in a fashion revue which is part of the play, "Lombardi, Ltd.," given by the Royal Stock company tonight. Ferber's has arranged to furnish costumes for all productions of the Royal Stock company in the future.

Pig's Love For Cow Saves Porky's Life

GOLDFIELD, Nev., Feb. 1.—A little pig's affection for a cow will save him from the butcher.

Born in a slaughter house, the little porker was presented to O. K. Reed, Nevada cattleman, who took it to the Longstreet ranch, near here.

At the ranch the five-pound pig espied a cow nursing a calf. He took advantage of the cow's reclining position and "nosed in" for power, heat and water companies, later merged into the North Missouri Power company, in charge of public relations, publicity, franchises, rights of way and power line constructions, at the same time being president of the Hamilton Light and Power company and a director in the Wanda corporation, holding company for all the real estate owned by the Dr. Bell interests from New York to Colorado.

The foster mother accepted her obligation, and whenever the porker approached lay down to provide nourishment.

The pig now weighs 200 pounds, strictly milk-fed.

Reed declares this pig will never go to market.

READ LOVE NOTES

ATLANTA, Ga., Feb. 1.—Fervent love notes telling the tale of blasted romance between an aged multi-millionaire and a beautiful young woman were presented as evidence in Mrs. Onezima De Bouchelle's $500,000 heart balm suit against Asa G. Candler, Atlantic capitalist. She is charging him with breach of promise.

Sickness obliges the sale of this beautiful home; large corner lot; six rooms, garage, every conceivable built-in feature. It's a shame to sell this property at $9500, $5000 cash will handle. Will also sacrifice furniture if needed. See Stanford and Crown, 1808 West Main Street, Alhambra. Phone Alhambra 1475.

TO PROTECT other interests owner must sell good income producing, 2-story building in the heart of Alhambra's business section. Lease brings good income—and at the rate property adjacent is priced, this will show a wonderful profit in 60 to 90 days over price asked. Address Box 465, Glendale News.

AIR MAIL BOUND
TO LINK COASTS
Lieut. Oakley G. Kelly for Southern Route on 48 Hour Schedule

By JAMES L. KILGALLEN
For International News Service.
COLON, Panama, Feb. 1.—
"Forty-eight-hour mail service between New York and San Francisco is not only feasible but a certainty of the future."

JAMES L. KILGALLEN

This was the declaration of Lieutenant Oakley G. Kelly, who, with Lieutenant Macready, achieved fame last year when they succeeded in making a non-stop flight
from New York to San Diego, Cal.

Lieutenant Kelly was here on his way to Portland, Ore., where he has been commissioned to take charge of a government school
for aviators.

Needs Development
"Commercial aviation is in its infancy," Lieutenant Kelly said.
"Nothing would give more impetus to the American air service than the development of the commercial possibilities of the airplane." The aviators developed in peace-time work would form the groundwork for a great air service in the event of war.

"I think faster time and better air-mail service could be achieved in the United States if it different route than the one used at present were followed by our commercial fliers.

The southern route appears to me more feasible than the northern route, which is used at present. There are three reasons for this opinion: Better weather, less elevations to hurdle and better landing fields.

Favors Southern Route
"I think the ideal air-mail route
from New York to San Francisco would be as follows: New York to Dayton, to St. Louis, Kansas City, Missouri; Wichita, Kansas; Tuc-son, Arizona; San Diego and up the coast to San Francisco.

"The advantage of this southern route would be that the high mountains and bad weather conditions which prevail over the northern route west of the Mississippi, especially in Winter time, would not be encountered. To say nothing of the better landing-field facilities to be found west of the Mississippi on the southern route.

"Six months' flying over the route I have outlined would prove it the best.

"I would be in favor of establishing another route, running north and south—say from Chicago to San Antonio—crossing the east and west route I have outlined."

Carries 1500 Pounds
Lieutenant Kelly said the best plane for air-mail flying is the junker type, he said, could easily carry 1,500 pounds of mail.
This machine, despite its numerous accidents of late year, is durable, he said, and can stand all kinds of weather conditions. It would provide it with an American engine.

The famous flier said he will not take part in the army and navy war maneuvers now under way here.

"Speaking of the Panama Canal," Kelly said, "the best way to put it out of commission would be by means of the airship. A flier dropping a bomb upon one of the locks or on a part of the land could demolish it would make it useless. And while the airplane is the best means of attack, it is likewise the best means of defense. In the event of a future war nothing would better safeguard this international highway than a fleet of airplanes."

Fire Destroyed Money
Machinery in Japan
TOKIO, Feb. 1.—The Japanese Government, badly needing buildings and facilities to operate its various departments since the great earthquake and fire of early September, has found a new way to solve the problem due to lack of machines to reprint paper money. The chief currency in Japan is of paper, the yen, corresponding to the American fifty-cent piece; the fifty yen, corresponding to the American twenty-five cents, and the five yen and others—all having been issued in paper money for many years.

Only recently has the Government virtually abolished issuance of ten sen paper pieces, the ten sen corresponding to the American five cents.

The Government has ordered from a foreign country machines to replace those burned. These will arrive in April. Meantime the Japanese Government will establish a paper-money renovating and patching department.

Postal Congress to Meet at Stockholm
STOCKHOLM, Feb. 1. —It has been decided to hold the eighth International Postal congress here on July 14 next.

Invitations will be extended to the seventy countries forming the Postal union, and about 150 delegates are expected.

Many important questions are down for discussion, including the postal rates. All discussions will be held in the parliament house.

People of Ireland prefer open automobiles, and few closed cars are seen there.

Pioneer Educator Claims High School Main Factor In Developing Citizens

By "OLD TIMER"

"I doubt if there is another community in America where it has been necessary to erect three high school buildings in twenty years, and I believe the High School, more than any one factor, is responsible for the high class citizenship of Glendale."

These are the congratulatory words in a letter written by E. D.
Goode of Culver City, twenty years a resident of Glendale, who has been called the founder of the Glendale Union High school, during whose incumbency of eleven years as the Glendale member of the board of trustees of the Glendale Union High school two of the three buildings were erected. The following is Mr. Goode's own account of the founding of the high school:

"The Glendale Union High school was organized in 1901, and here is how it was accomplished:
"Theodore Kanouse, for many years a progressive citizen of Glendale, was first to mention the possibility to me. We afterward discussed the matter with J. P.
McIntyre and the late D. W. Hunt.
I asked what the preliminary steps would be, and no one seemed to know just what the legal procedure would be, but it was suggested that the county school inspector (at that time J. H. Strine) could advise us. I immediately had an interview with him, and learned that the first necessary move was to circulate
a petition and secure the names of a majority of the heads of families in each district, and at the same time name one of their number as representative or trustee,
to serve until election.

"I secured the names in Glendale, West Glendale, Tropic, Burbank and Ivanhoe. Philip W. Parker of Eagle Rock secured the names in that district, and Dr.
Hunt secured them in Crescenta.
"At the suggestion of the petitioners, the superintendent appointed the following named citizens as trustees:

"Glendale, E. D. Goode; West
Glendale, F. R. Pittman; Tropic,
E. W. Richardson; Burbank, Gus
Moore; Eagle Rock, P. W. Parker; Ivanhoe, D. W. Dwir; Crescenta, James V. Plenkharp.

"The superintendent called us to meet at his home for a discussion and to decide on a name and location, and it developed that the law made it necessary that we vote unanimously on location.
During this time a lively contest was on between Glendale and Tropic, for both name and location. The late E. W. Richardson led the fight for Tropic and offered a free site consisting of two and one-half acres.

Chose Glendale Site
"I was leading the fight for Glendale, but no one of the owners of large tracts offered a site in Glendale, but Judge E. M. Ross and the late Captain Thom owned the Sanitarium building at that time, and it being occupied, I induced them to give us the use of it for one year's rent free. By this time I had all trustees pledged for Glendale except Mr.
Richardson, and my friend Parker said we could never get his vote. I said: 'We have one chance, and this is my proposition: We will elect him permanent chairman. I will make a motion that be called 'Glendale Union High school,' that it be located in the Glendale Sanitarium building for one year, at the end of which time Glendale will donate a suitable site of two and a half acres as a permanent location, and if we all vote for my motion I believe he will declare it unanimous for Glendale,' and that is exactly what transpired.

"The school started with L.
Evans, principal, and Miss Mary
G. Edwards, assistant. Seventeen pupils were enrolled the first month. Then we commenced agitation for a permanent site, which resulted in the purchase of two and one-half acres of land, corner Brand boulevard and Broadway, where the First National bank is now located, for the sum of $750, paid for by the citizens of Glendale. I have no list of the names of those who contributed the necessary amount, but among them were J. F. McIntyre, Dr. D. W. Hunt, E. T. Byram, Elias Ayers, Joseph Banker, T. D.
Kanouse, Charles Lund, Sr., S. W.
Lyman and F. G. Taylor.

"Next on our program was the voting of bonds to the amount of $14,000 for a school building, and the pessimists who are ever present in every community entered a vigorous protest, claiming that $5,000 would be sufficient for a building to suffice for ten years.
We had a bitter fight, and won by a very few votes.

"The building was constructed by our first contractor, William Anderson, whose bid was lowest at $8,000.

Served Eleven Years
"The above named trustees were elected at the general election. I had the honor of serving as trustee and clerk of the board for eleven years. Mr. Richardson represented Tropic for about the same length of time. Mr. Pittman of West Glendale was succeeded by Daniel Campbell, Gus Moore of Burbank by George C. Melrose, P. W. Parker of Eagle Rock by J. Q. Adams, and James V. Plenk-harp of Crescenta by Samuel Merrell.

"About this time it was decided that Glendale was entitled to two trustees, and the late Claude Pulham was elected to succeed me;
from that time to the present we are quite familiar with the unequal growth of the school, and I doubt if there is another community in America where it has been necessary to erect three high school buildings in twenty years,
and I believe the high school, responsible for the high class citizenship of Glendale.

"It may be of interest to new residents to know that when the first high school was built it was surrounded by a barley field, and

IT'S A TREAT—OUR MEATS TO EAT

Nine Deaths in Week
Laid to Fireplaces
ATLANTA, Ga., Feb. 1.—When the open fireplace, unprotected by a screen, claimed nine more lives here this week, as indicated by the mortality records of Dr. John P. Kennedy, city health officer, Fire Chief W. B. Cody issued a vigorous renewal of his warning, sounded several weeks ago, that the "open fireplace is one of the greatest menaces of the day to the lives of elderly persons and children.

"I have constantly warned about this," said the fire chief.
"Wire screening over grates and open fireplaces would serve the necessary protection, if people would only use a little forethought."

By Travelling Through HELENA, Mont., Feb. 1.— Traffic officials estimate that tourists spent approximately $3-000,000 in Montana in 1923. This is due to nearly all the tourists between the Atlantic and Pacific coast points during the summer season traversing the state to find passes over the Rocky mountains.

Coolidge call for the resignation of all officials whose connection with the leasing of oil reserves of the government indicates misfeasance or malfeasance in office.

Refuses to Quit
Secretary Denby remained adamant today in his decision not to quit "under fire."

In response to questions whether he would leave the cabinet if the resolution passed, he replied heavily:

"I am not going to resign."

A conference between President Coolidge and Senators Lodge, Republican, of Massachusetts, and Brandagee, Republican, of Connecticut, at the White House last night confirmed the report administration leaders will support
Denby to the last.

In an effort to ascertain whether any government officials dealt in Sinclair stock in the period
just prior to the leasing of Teapot Dome to the Mammoth Oil company, the senate committee has subpoenaed officers of Hibbs & Co., Washington and New York stock brokers, it was learned.
Rumors were current in Washington that administration officials had been involved in stock transactions shortly before the formal announcement of the lease was made.

Continue Inquiry
The Senate public lands committee met to delve further into the private financial transactions of W. L. Doheny, lessee of Elk Hills, in an effort to determine whether he had ever loaned or paid money to any government officials other than Fall, and the House naval affairs committee called Rear Admiral J. L. Latimer, Judge advocate general of the navy, who stated Denby himself "initiated" the transfer of the oil reserve lands from the navy to the interior department.

The White House, meanwhile, pressed forward with arrangements to recover the reserves.
Thomas Watt Gregory, one of the special counsel named by President Coolidge, was due in Washington today to join Silas H.
Strawn.

At the cabinet meeting today,
the whole lease question again
was up for consideration.

In Secret Session
In addition to Doheny, who is under surveillance of department of justice operatives, the senate committee, in secret session, heard the report of three nerve specialists, who were sent to Fall's bedside to determine whether he is physically able to come to the capital to testify.

Despite indications that the senate would pass the Denby ouster resolution, Republican senators moved today to make the

WOODROW WILSON AT DEATH'S DOOR

Hope of Prolonging Life of Former President Is Admitted Slight

This was done at Admiral Grayson's suggestion. Mr. Wilson's present illness started Tuesday when he experienced a slight digestive disturbance. This was not regarded as particularly serious by members of his family, but Dr. Sterling Ruffin, who had been one of the attending physicians during the ex-president's long illness in the White House, was called. Mr. Wilson experienced considerable discomfort Wednesday, but yesterday he was about the house as usual, personally attending to his voluminous correspondence.

In Weak Condition Mr. Wilson has been suffering from occasional stomach disorders in the past, but they are regarded as especially serious at this time because of his weakened condition, resulting from his three years of continual invalidism. His strength has never been great since his memorable collapse in Kansas during his League of Nations speaking tour in September of 1919 and any disorder, however slight, immediately affects his small remaining strength.

A cablegram was sent today to Mrs. Frances Bows-Sayre, the youngest of the Wilson daughters, who is now in Siam with her husband. Telegrams were also sent to Mrs. William Gibbs McAdoo in California and Miss Margaret Wilson, in New York, his other daughters.

Mr. Wilson celebrated his 67th birthday only a little more than a month ago and at that time, his physicians pronounced him "in excellent shape" considering the fact that he had been a chronic invalid since late in 1919.

"I'm Broken Man" How long he may linger could not be forecast, was said, but his death might be expected any moment.

Only a short time before Dr. Grayson made the announcement, that the ex-president had summoned him to lean over his bed, and in a whisper said:

"Doctor, I'm a broken man. I'm a broken piece of machinery."

"I am ready to go."

With that, Dr. Grayson said, the ex-president thanked him in a feeble voice for "all he had done for him."

Mr. Wilson was very weak at 11 o'clock, so weak that his voice was only a whisper. He was conscious, however, of everything about him and seemed to realize perfectly, it was said, that the long fight for health which he has waged so grimly and with such tremendous courage for years, is about over.

No one was allowed to stay in the sick room but Admiral Grayson. Mrs. Wilson was in and out of the room.

"Condition Unchanged" B. M. Baruch and J. P. Tumulty, who had called earlier and consoled with Mrs. Wilson, left the house shortly before Dr. Ruffin's departure. They were visibly affected and only shook their heads sadly at inquirers.

Dr. H. W. Fowler, the kidney specialist, left the house at 12:30. He also stated the ex-president's condition was unchanged.

Dr. Fowler said there had been no stoppage of the kidneys, contrary to earlier reports.

The patient's respiration, he said, was "quite normal."

Mrs. Wilson is remaining constantly at her husband's bedside. She and the doctors are the only ones admitted to the sick room.

Shortly after 12:30 it was reported that Mr. Wilson had lost consciousness and that he was in a semi-conscious condition, but this was not confirmed by the physicians.

McAdoo to Leave LOS ANGELES, Feb. 1.—William G. McAdoo and Mrs. McAdoo, formerly Miss Eleanor Wilson, daughter of ex-President Woodrow Wilson, were preparing today to leave immediately for Washington, where Mr. Wilson is seriously

PRINCE CYRIL IS VISITING BORIS

King of Bulgaria Host to Brother Who Has Been In Exile at Coburg

CONSTANTINE STEPHANOV

For International News Service. Sofia, Feb. 1.—Bulgarian royalty is enjoying the nearest thing to a family reunion permitted it since the military debacle in 1918, which drove King Ferdinand and his children, except for King Boris, successor to Ferdinand, from the country.

The reunion has been brought about by the arrival of Prince Cyril, the only brother of King Boris, in Sofia. Prince Cyril, who has been in exile in Coburg with his father, the former King, arrived unannounced to spend the Christmas and New Year's holidays with his brother and his sisters, the Princesses Madeira and Eudoxie, who have been living at the palace for several months.

Bulgarians generally are greatly pleased with the return of the youngest prince of the royal family, who before the war was immensely popular with all classes of Bulgarians. In their youth, not only Prince Cyril but King Boris, then the Crown Prince, and their sisters used to roam in the country among the peasantry and so endeared themselves to the rustic folk that they were known far and wide as "The Children." As a boy Prince Cyril often was danced on the knee of a peasant mother exactly as were her own "kids."

At the outbreak of the Balkan wars in 1912, however, the happy home life of the royal family came to an end. The two princes joined their regiments and continued in military service through the World War. In October, 1918, Prince Cyril, with his father and two sisters, was compelled to leave the country, and ever since he has been in exile.

King Boris, who is devoted to his brothers and sisters, has been eager to have them join him in Sofia, but during the agrarian anti-royal regime he was not allowed to communicate either with his deposed father or other members of his family. A year ago Mr. Stamboliski, who was then Premier, permitted the two princesses to return; but it was not until after the fall of the Stamboliski government that the King was able to arrange the return of Prince Cyril.

It is rumored, however, that the visit of Prince Cyril is something more than a friendly sojourn of one brother with another. Both King Boris and the prince are among the heirs of the estate of their uncle, the late Duke Philip of Saxe-Coburg Gotha, which is being contested by other claimants.

Discuss Matrimony The arrival of Prince Cyril also has revived discussion of the matrimonial status of the four royal brothers and sisters. Each of the four is now marriageable, and divers reports are afloat about various matrimonial combinations with royal families abroad. Nothing definite is known, but the matrimonial future of the members of the royal family is a favorite topic with Bulgarians everywhere.

At the royal palace King Boris ill, it was announced from Mr. McAdoo's office here. No train time has been set for McAdoo's departure, but it is certain he will leave today.

"All due haste will be made in reaching Washington," it was announced.

Rear-Admiral Grayson, physician for the ex-president, has kept Mr. McAdoo closely advised by telegraph concerning Mr. Wilson's condition.

Hurries to Bedside NEW YORK, Feb. 1.—Miss Margaret Wilson, daughter of former President Woodrow Wilson, who is seriously ill at Washington, left New York for Washington this morning. Her departure was hurried and followed receipt of word that her father's illness had taken a turn for the worse.

P. Newport & Company, prominent real estate operators.

C. W. Ingledue, president of the Glendale Advancement association, will be toastmaster at this luncheon, introducing many of the prominent guests, who will make short speeches stressing various phases of what is conceded to be a significant forward step in the history of this city.

After the talks are over the party will be conveyed in automobiles to the new Oakmont Country club and shown around Sparr Heights, the great Barnum-Walters subdivision which has focused the attention of the Southwest on Glendale.

To Verdugo Foothills
The special cars will then be boarded once more and the party taken further up into the beautiful Verdugo foothills, through Montrose to La Crescenta, the end of the line. Returning, they will be routed over the Eagle Rock line to the "flagpole" corner of Colorado and Eagle Rock boulevards, Los Angeles, thence back to Glendale, where the historic trip will be concluded at 5 o'clock.

Those who will be the guests of the Glendale Advancement association and of the railroad are tomorrow's big all-day affair include: Mayor Spencer Robinson of Glendale and the City Council, City Manager Virgil B. Stone, William H. Reeves, former city manager, President W. E. Hewitt and the directors of the Chamber of Commerce, President C. W. Guthrie of the Central Avenue improvement association, President Alexander Mitchell of the Glendale Foothill Improvement association, President J. M. Boland of the Colorado Boulevard Improvement association, E. P. Newport, H. E. Barnum, M. Walters, A. T. Cowan, Peter L. Ferry, S. C. Kinch, Lon J. Carey, of the Los Angeles Salt Lake division; Preston L. Hatch of Glendale, general manager of the Glendale & Montrose railway; Val Haresnap, secretary-treasurer of the Glendale & Montrose railway; George J. Kuhrt, general manager of the Los Angeles railway; P. B. Harris, chief engineer, the Los Angeles railway; John Trainer, vice president and general manager of the Riverside Portland Cement company, and numerous other railway officials and business men of Glendale and Los Angeles.

Doctor Says Sympathy Best For Dope Habit

CHICAGO, Feb. 1.—Instead of punishment being meted out to persons addicted to drugs, wholehearted sympathy and extensive co-operation should be extended to these unfortunate, according to Dr. Herman N. Bunden, Chicago health commissioner.

In a signed bulletin issued recently, Dr. Bunden also pointed out that each year finds the ranks of child narcotic addicts increasing steadily. This is a problem, he said, which demands the highest skill of the medical profession before it will be solved satisfactorily and its menacing aspects gradually eliminated.

and his brother and sisters live an extremely simple life. The management of the royal household is jointly in the hands of the two princesses, and it is common knowledge that they are not above turning their hands to the performance of many domestic tasks. Friends who have called at the palace frequently have found the princesses, apron-clad, at work in the kitchen.

How long Prince Cyril will remain in Sofia is not known, but the government is known to have no objection to his presence, and he is popular with the people. It is not unlikely that his visit will be a protracted one. In the event of the death of King Boris, Prince Cyril is the only heir to the Bulgarian throne.

U.S. OF EUROPE MAY COME TRUE

Viennese Leader Would Not Include Great Britain in Federation

By DAVID M. CHURCH
For International News Service.
LONDON, Feb. 1.—A United States of Europe—it sounds like a Utopian dream in these days of chaos and confusion.

Yet there are those who are optimistic enough to believe that a United States of Europe can be created, made an actuality and removed from the realm of dreams.

Dr. R. N. Coudenhove Kalergi of Vienna is one of the leaders and proponents of the Pan-European society, which aims at a United States of Europe, which will assume world leadership and will not include Great Britain.

The Pan-European society proposes a conference of all of the nations of Europe for the formation of a co-operating, united Europe, under one flag.

Germany Needs Friend
Germany must find a friend,

Kalergi reasons, and it must be either France or Russia, for the British empire has too many ties through blood relationship and language all over the world to allow it to be a real friend of any European power. Kalergi admits there is still much hatred between the French and the Germans, and this is at present the chief obstacle to the scheme for unity, but if France refuses to unite with Germany, then Germany will go to Russia. And, much sooner than some people think, warns the doctor, Russia, with the aid of German scientific knowledge and American money, will be on its feet again. And there will be another war, in which France will be crushed.

But Kalergi hopes France will listen to argument and will join with Germany and other European nations to form a United States of Europe.

Dr. Kalergi is so enthusiastic about the plan that he has written a book, "Pan-Europe," setting forth his ideas and those for which the Pan-European society is working.

The great European federation of states, as proposed, would be the greatest in the world, having a population of 431,000,000 of people, as compared with 212,000,000 in Pan-America, 408,000,000 in East Asia, 145,000,000 in the Russian countries and 454,000,000 in the British empire.

The United States of Europe project might well cause the world to stop and think if it were as near success as Dr. Kalergi believes it to be, but anyone in Europe today who sees nations bickering over petty differences can only consider the United States of Europe as a dream and a most Utopian dream at that.

COUNCIL FAVORS BUILDING PLANS

Kills Measure Which Would Prevent Erection of Bungalow Court

A lively passage of words between members of the City Council in which the interested pro- and anti-bungalow court members eventually joined, developed yesterday at the council meeting when the ordinance setting aside as a residential district Campbell street, from Dryden north, was presented for adoption.

The real fight centered on the erection of a bungalow court on property owned by H. L. Finlay of Finlay & Preston. Adoption of the ordinance meant that plans for this building would have to be abandoned.

Mrs. J. H. Gwinner, 1134 Campbell street, led the forces urging the passing of the ordinance, and Mr. Finlay stated his side of the case. He was supported by Councilman Asa Hall, who had made a personal inspection of the property Wednesday afternoon.

On the roll call, Mayor Robinson, with Councilman Hall and Kimlin voted against the ordinance, and with only Councilman Davis and Horn voting for it, the measure was killed.

Mrs. Gwinner was very plain in her denunciation of the members of the council who voted the ordinance by their vote, and was informed by Mayor Robinson that he had voted as he saw the case. Each councilman explained his vote. Twenty-six per cent of the property owners had protested the ordinance and seventy-four per cent had signed a petition asking that it be passed.

Interior Department Budget Passes House

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1.—The interior department appropriation bill for the next fiscal year, carrying a total of about $262,000,000, was passed by the House. Consolidations of fourteen other land and register offices will not take place for a year.

Visit to Birthplace of Savior on Christmas Day Related In Kirk Letter

Fulfilling a wish of many years, Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Kirk and daughter spent Christmas Eve in Bethlehem, and a description of this experience is given in the Kirk letter herewith printed. Mr. Kirk writes from Jerusalem, December 30:

"Unfortunately, I misjudged the length of time required for mail to reach here from America, so I am missing the larger part of my mail at Christmas time. Yesterday we received four letters, all from mighty good friends, which cheered our hearts. These letters were mailed November 29 and 30 and December 1 and 3. So you see, it takes about a full month for letters to reach here, a week longer than I thought. I hope to receive some of the future mail sent here at Beirut on the ninth, but the balance will have to be sent to Italy.

"Christmas has come and gone, and soon another year will be ours. One of our great ambitions has been to spend Christmas Eve in Bethlehem, and this has been satisfied. Last Sunday as I was writing my letter to you, the wind was blowing a gale, and it was very cold and disagreeable outside. Monday the 24th dawned cloudy and chilly, and we were fearful that the afternoon would interfere with our trip.

The afternoon was partially clearing, so, with our dragoman in our same auto, we started to Bethlehem about 3 o'clock.

Visit Rachel's Tomb

"It is only six miles away, due south. We stopped on the way at 'Rachel's Tomb' for a snapshot, and passed some fine modern homes and met some of the motley outfits which we see on all these roads, we were in sight of the city of David, which lies on the hillside facing the east and northeast. Another modern town, which seems of good size lies to the northeast of Bethlehem.

"Unlike Jerusalem, autos and other vehicles are permitted to penetrate the narrow streets of Bethlehem, so with very loud honking we drove right down to the market place in front of the 'Church of the Nativity.' The latter is now controlled by the Catholics, as you know, although in the holy places, so called, the Greeks and Armenians each have a third interest. So jealously are these interests guarded that, for instance, the space before the 'Grotto of the Nativity' is divided into so many inches for each sect and if the carpet of one encroaches the least bit on that of the other, it is cut or destroyed.

"These jealousies have caused disgraceful quarrels and fights and a Moslem soldier always stands guard close by to keep peace. What a travesty on the name of Christianity! Before the coming of the British the Moslems were the guardians of all these sacred places and were the guardians of the peace. No wonder we have a hard time converting them to our faith!

"The front of the old church from the time of the Crusaders is of plain stone and the narrow entrance only about five feet high, so constructed as to compel all who enter to bow the head. The basilica within is a plain wide room with high arched dome flanked on both sides by two rows of plain pillars, about ten in a row. The front altar is a stage-like platform, with the usual adornments at back and sides.

"Going downstairs to the left is the 'Grotto of the Nativity,' a few feet wide, two or three feet deep, having tapestries at either side, adornments and lamps from above, and on the floor in the center a large star of brass or gilded silver, indicating the exact spot where Christ was born.

"Of course this spot is greatly adored and worshipped by all those who believe it to be the spot where Christ was born.

Retroactive Tax Plan Offered by Democrat

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1.—Application of the Democratic tax reduction plan to tax payments for 1923, falling due March 15 next, was proposed in a resolution introduced in the House by Congressman Garner, Democrat, of Texas, ranking Democratic member of the ways and means committee.

This proposal was a counter stroke by the Democrats to the ways and means committee members in deciding upon a retroactive cut of 25 per cent on income taxes for 1923.

PROTECTION FOR ROADS BIG NEED

Outside Traffic Should Pay,
For Damage to Highway,
It Is Claimed

By C. A. GRIFFIN

Of The Evening News Staff.
A committee was appointed at Thursday's luncheon of the Glendale Advancement Association for the purpose of starting a movement for equitable laws governing the construction of pavement on sections of main traveled roads passing through cities.

Dr. H. R. Harrower brought the matter to the attention of the members by mentioning the condition of San Fernando road. He said that this pavement has been worn out and ruined, not by traffic originating in the city of Glendale, but by heavily laden trucks bound over the highway from northern points to Los Angeles.

For instance, he mentioned the fact that several thousand twelve-ton truck loads of sand and gravel are hauled over this road every day from the Pacoima bed to Los Angeles.

Calls It Unfair

"It is absolutely unfair for city property owners to be forced to maintain a pavement used so largely in this way," Dr. Harrower said. "We are all paying out 2 cent gasoline tax to the state funds, and some of these funds should be used to pave San Fernando road through Glendale. If the state law does not permit an expenditure of state funds in that way, the law should be changed, and this organization, with the aid of other service organizations in Glendale, car, start a movement which will create public opinion demanding a change of that kind."

The association members accepted Dr. Harrower's suggestion by appointing a committee to investigate the matter and take it up with other organizations. President C. W. Ingledue named Dr. Harrower, George E. Caldwell and C. A. Griffin on this committee.

Financing Hotel

Mrs. M. L. Tight was roundly applauded when she rose to announce that the work of financing the Glendale hotel, to be built at Glendale and Broadway, was rapidly nearing completion. The association has consistently worked on this big project for the last year. Mrs. Tight stated that two separate Los Angeles financial groups were eager to put up the money, and the question now was simply a matter of choosing between them.

"This will be done Saturday and construction will start next Monday," said Mrs. Tight.

President Ingledue said that the city council had asked that the fence around the hotel excavation be moved back and a sidewalk put in, but had granted a 30-day extension of time before requiring this, in order to permit construction work to start on the building.

W. M. Mills of the Glendale & Monterey railway, and S. C. Kitch, chairman of the railway committee of the association, both spoke describing the celebration that will be held Saturday in honor of the company's new line to connect with Los Angeles.

The Glendale Advancement Association will co-operate with the company in making this occasion memorable.

Mr. Kitch circulated a subscription paper and the members present subscribed from $5 to $25 each to pay the expenses of the celebration.

Council Grants More Time in Hotel Move

C. W. Ingledue, representing the Glendale Improvement Association, appeared before the City Council yesterday and stated that he thought that within thirty days plans would be completed for the erection of a modern hotel on the northeast corner of Glendale avenue and Broadway.

The council had become impatient with the condition of this property and were in a mind to order the removal of the fence so that the sidewalk would be available for pedestrian use.

On Mr. Ingledue's recommendation the matter was delayed for another thirty, and if active operations are not started by that time the matter will be taken up again.

GREAT QUANTITY OF MILK IS USED

70,000 Gallons Daily Goes Into This District, Is Company's Estimate

The Los Angeles district consumes 70,000 gallons of milk a day, according to the Crescent Creamery Company, who state that the producers supplying this district extend east of Pomona and north into the San Fernando and Antelope valleys.

Approximately 50 per cent of this supply is produced east and south of Pomona, they state, while 30 per cent comes directly from Los Angeles county and the balance from northern sections and scattered counties. Reports of the Milk Producers association show capacity for more than doubling the present supply of production without drawing on more distant sections of California, so that the Los Angeles district is at least assured of an adequate milk supply for the next 5 years, without entailing high shipping costs. All milk is graded according to the requirements of the California state milk law and is under inspection of the city health department.

Always Fresh Supply

Customer Cooperation

- TELEPHONE service consists essentially in providing the facilities for communication. Reduced to fundamentals, it may be stated thus:—
- 1.—Such care in asking for the number as one would use in addressing a letter.
  - 2.—Such promptness in answering the call as one would give to keeping a personal appointment.
  - 3.—Such courtesy as one would show in making or receiving a business or social call.
  - 4.—Such clear, correct speech as one would use in the face-to-face transaction of the most important business.
- Each subscriber can increase the effectiveness of his telephone communication by such thoughtfulness as he would employ in his daily life.
- Satisfaction with the service depends largely on A and B. From the very beginning their cooperation is imperative. A must call B and B must answer. Doing these things in the way which makes for good service involves:—
- A is provided with a telephone.
  - B is provided with a telephone.
  - C, through wires and mechanism, connects these two telephones.

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 1.—

"Leap year has ruined my business!"

This is the shout of Grant (Cupid) Munson, chief clerk in San Francisco's marriage license bureau, as he throws a tearful eye around his deserted office. He sits in an aura of gloom, and one lonely bride-to-be, simpering nearby in the waiting room with a half-simmering groom beside her, is now usually the only evidence of his day's labor.

"Leap year just scares off the brides," said Munson. "And why shouldn't it? Take just a fair-looking girl, for example. Do you think she's going to get married this year and have all of her friends call her a Leap Year bride?"

In the first five days of this year we issued only seventy-one licenses to wed. Last year in the same number of days we issued almost twice that number.

"Of course, to the girl who is really in love, every year is Leap Year, and for a bachelor any girl is a menace and really no greater a menace this year than any other year. The only drawback is the silk dress custom. You know when a man receives a proposal of marriage from a girl if he does not accept he must buy her a silk dress. I know a girl who is going to get a whole troupeau of silk gowns this year. She's snared two already."

Back home after thirty years in the frozen North, Ben Henderson, famous as the man who first discovered gold in the Klondike region and started the frantic rush of '97, is in San Francisco. "The real reason that I hit the trail this year was to find an honest-to-goodness red-headed girl with freckles as big as saucers all over her face," declared Henderson shortly after his arrival.

Sixty-five years old, Henderson has made his fortune and is ready to leave the land of snow and ice and gold behind him.

Henderson has never been sick a day in his life, but he complains bitterly of his hard luck, deploring the fact that his claims and various holdings are now worth "only a little more than $300,000."

Leniency is expected to be shown to mothers who appear in court here before Police Judge Joseph M. Golden, who has just taken office. Golden's election campaign was managed by his mother, who made a house-to-house canvass seeking votes for her son.

"My success is due entirely to my mother," Golden declares, "and I hope always her love and devotion will guide me in this court."

When the new judge took the oath of office his mother threw her arms around him and kissed him. Later she sat beside him during his first court session.

HISTORIC SITE FOR DEMOCRATIC CONVENTION

Madison Square Garden Chosen For 1924 Political Meeting

Madison Square Garden, N. Y.

By FRANK SAVAGE
For International News Service.

NEW YORK, Feb. 1.—Madison Square Garden, where the Democratic national convention will be held next June, conjures up in the minds of native New Yorkers a train of hallowed memories.

Long the center of all sorts of civic activities, not only the garden but the surrounding neighborhood and the various odd structures which preceded it are closely allied with the emotional side of New York history.

Within the spacious arena, its handsome concert hall, the beautiful Garden theatre and on its cool roof garden New Yorkers past and present have seen revealed the whole scale of human passion—from the antics of painted circus clowns to grim tragedy, the most sensational of which was the shooting to death by Harry Thaw of Stanford White, the architect who designed the famous structure.

The dim past echoes the voices of thousands of children who marveled as daring trapeze performers clung perilously to their lofty perches and wild animals roared in their cages. The divine Patti here held spellbound vast audiences as her voice reverberated through the concert hall. Athletes have died from over-exertion as they defied nature in their quest for new records. Patrick Sarsfield Gilmore, his breast laden with medals, here led the famous band, immortal in the memories of the passing generation. Edward Payson Weston, the indomitable hiker, surprised the world by walking for six consecutive days in Madison Square Garden, and it was here that John L. Sullivan first fought under the Marquis of Queensberry rules, after having defeated Paddy Ryan under the London prize ring regulations.

New York's "Civic Center"

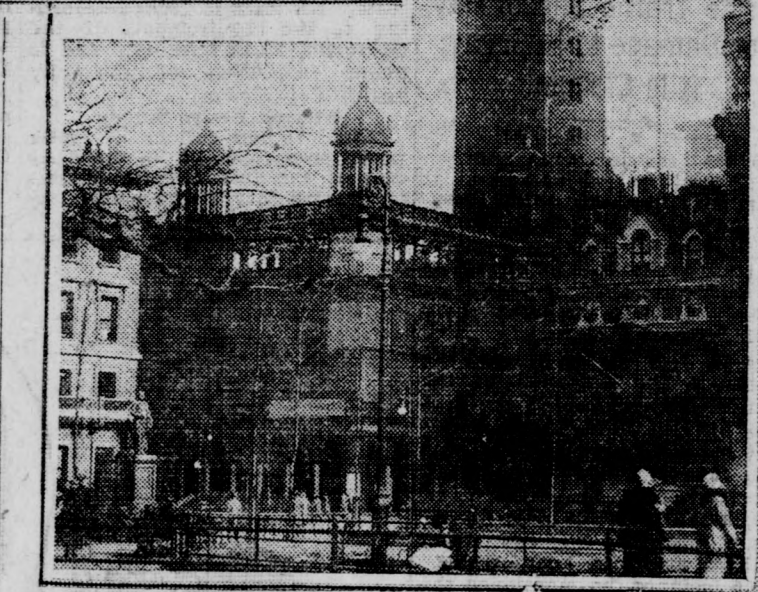

Many an equine aristocrat has bowed his crest and tossed his head, proud of his blue ribbon, petted and pampered by society. In the annual horse shows held here, while dogs with lengthy pedigrees have held forth in their glory in many a dog show. Innumerable prize fights, six-day bike races and every other conceivable kind of sport exhibition which can be held in a great arena have been presented in the garden.

The voices of the nation's greatest orators—David B. Hill, Henry George, Tom Johnson, William Jennings Bryan, Bourke Cochran, Augustus Thomas, the silver-tongued Grady, Theodore Roosevelt and Samuel Gompers—have resounded through its corridors, heard by great throngs.

Madison Square Garden came into being more through a process of evolution than as a creation. The site on which the present building is located was recognized as a center of sports activities and public assemblies shortly after the war for independence.

Long before any of the ramshackle wickerparks which immediately preceded construction of the garden were built, the entire neighborhood of what is now Madison Square and before that the intersection of Broadway and Twenty-third street was dedicated to cock fights, dog fights and athletic contests of various sorts.

More than seven score years ago

the city reserved four acres in this district, known as the Casper Sander estate, at Bloomingdale road and the Old Boston Post road, as a sort of public playground for men, women and children.

Rich in Tradition

Hence the wealth of tradition that surrounds the garden and the deep-seated affection for it and for the hallowed landmarks which surrounded it, most of which have long since given way to the march of progress and the steadily enhancing value of realty.

The immediate legitimate predecessor of Madison Square Garden was Franconi's Hippodrome, which in its time served virtually the same purpose the garden has for a number of years. The Hippodrome was succeeded by the Fifth Avenue hotel, and for some time after this New York without any suitable place for large public gatherings, except for the Crystal Palace, which burned while still a comparatively new structure.

At one time, in the interval, the section was occupied by the Harlem railroad passenger station, from which radiated horsecars, connecting with the steam lines. Advent of the magnificent Grand Central Terminal eliminated this. P. T. Barnum, whose name is synonymous with the circus, saw in the location an ideal spot to present "the greatest show on earth," and did so. The traditional "big top" was made largely of canvas. Barnum gave up the place when his rent was raised from $5,000 a year to $75,000. He was followed by E. G. Gilmore, who built brick walls around the arena and erected a somewhat better roof over it than Barnum had used. In April, 1874, the place was opened as Gilmore's Garden, and in 1878 the name was changed to Madison Square Garden. The present structure, a triumph of architectural art, was opened in 1890.

Garden Saved

The garden, with a few minor changes, will seat approximately 15,000.

In 1911 there was recurring talk of tearing down the historic structure and supplanting it with one which would produce a larger and more certain revenue, the plea being made that the building never had been a paying investment. The hue and cry raised by the newspapers and the public effectively disposed of this plan.

POEMS That LIVE

DREAM-PEDLARY

If there were dreams to sell,
What would you buy?
Some cost a passing bell;
Some a light sigh.
That shakes from Life's fresh crown

Only a rose-leaf down
If there were dreams to sell,
Merry and sad to tell,
And the crier rang the bell,
What would you buy?

A cottage lone and still,
With bowers nigh,
Shadowy, my woes to still,
Until I die.
Such pearl from Life's fresh crown

Fain would I shake me down,
Were dreams to have at will,
This would best heal my ill,
This would I buy

Dinner Stories

A favorite in army circles in Washington is this story:

A negro was beating it for the back areas as fast as he could go, when he was stopped by a white officer.

"Don't delay me, sub," said the negro. "I's gotta be on my way."

"Boy," replied the officer, "do you know who I am? I'm a general."

"Go on, white man, you ain't no general."

"I certainly am," insisted the officer, angrily.

"Lordy," exclaimed the negro, taking a second look. "You sure is! I musta been travelin' some, 'cause I didn't think I'd got back that far yet."

Uncle Wiggily Bedtime Stories

—BY HOWARD R. GARIS—

UNCLE WIGGILY AND THE SQUIGGLE BUGS

Once upon a time two dear, little, spotted Squiggle Bugs lived in Uncle Wiggily's hollow stump bungalow. The Squiggle Bugs had asked the rabbit gentleman if they might live with him, where it was nice and warm, until summer came again. For it was the beginning of winter, when the Squiggle Bugs went to stay with Uncle Wiggily.

"Come right in! You are more than welcome!" greeted the bunny, when the little spotted creatures asked him.

So they had lived in the hollow stump bungalow up to this time. They had a snug little hole under the fire-place, where they cuddled up, tucking their legs under them.

One afternoon Uncle Wiggily brought home in his pockets some horse chestnuts. He had picked them up on the ground near the home tree of the Bushytail squirrel family. Mrs. Bushytail had thrown them out after Johnnie and Billie, the squirrel boys, had stored the horse chestnuts away down in the nut cellar.

"Horse chestnuts are not of much use," chattered Mrs. Bushytail, as she tossed them out. "If we were starving we might eat them, but not otherwise, for we have better nuts than those."

Seeing the horse chestnuts on the ground, Uncle Wiggily picked up half a dozen and took them home.

"They look just like the buckeyes of the state of Ohio," he said, twinkling his pink nose.

"What are you going to do with those horse chestnuts?" asked Nurse Jane, when Uncle Wiggily took them from his pockets.

"Oh! Perhaps I might string them, as I did the acorns for Nannie Wagtail, and make a necklace for the baby elephant," he laughed the bunny. He had made holes in all of the horse chestnuts when, all of a sudden, the two little Squiggle Bugs crawled up out of their snug hole under the fireplace.

"Is it spring yet, Uncle Wiggily?" they whispered.

"Gracious sakes alive, no!" exclaimed the bunny. "Get back your snug, warm hole. It won't be spring yet for two months or more."

"Oh! We are so tired of staying down there in that dark hole," sighed one little Squiggle Bug. "Couldn't we sit out on the mantel?"

"You might catch cold, as I did when I sneezed," spoke Uncle Wiggily. But just then he looked at the two horse chestnuts in which he had made holes, and in which he had placed the two little Squiggle Bugs, and he cried, "I'll put each of you inside a horse chestnut and put the nuts on the mantel. There you will be warm and there you may look out and see what goes on in the world."

No sooner said than done! Into a horse chestnut crawled each of the two little Squiggle Bugs, and Uncle Wiggily placed them on the mantel. Also he placed on the mantel the other nuts, without any holes in them, leaving them there, for, just then, Nurse Jane called to him to come to supper. And it was such a good supper that the rabbit gentleman forgot to tell his muskrat lady housekeeper about the two little Squiggle Bugs inside the horse chestnuts.

After supper Uncle Wiggily went to sleep. And up on the mantel, snug in their nuts, the Squiggle Bugs also took a trip to Dreamland.

It was the next day that Johnnie and Billie Bushytail, the two squirrel boys, stopped at Uncle Wiggily's hollow stump bungalow. They were on their way to recite their lessons to the Lady Mouse Teacher in the hollow stump school.

"Oh, Nurse Jane!" chattered Johnnie. "Did Uncle Wiggily bring home some of our horse chestnuts? Mother says she saw him pick them up after she threw them out."

"Yes, there are a lot of chestnuts on the mantel," said the muskrat lady.

"May we have them back?" begged Billie. "Mother didn't know we wanted them to play with or she wouldn't have thrown them out."

"Bless your frisky tails, take them!" laughed Nurse Jane. "I'm sure Uncle Wiggily won't mind!"

So the squirrel boys took the chestnuts back again, including

The Squiggle Bugs did a funny little dance.

"Oh, what kind of horse chestnuts are these?" she squeaked. "They must be alive, or have little ponies in them!"

But Uncle Wiggily saw the two Squiggle Bugs were inside. So he showed the Lady Mouse and the animal children, and then no one was afraid. And Johnnie and Billie laughed. And the Squiggle Bugs did a funny little dance on teacher's desk before they crawled back inside the nuts for the bunny to take them home.

M. Andera.

Burglar Suspect Shot

VENTURA, Feb. 1.—A man giving his name as Winfield Brady has been shot and taken into custody by L. W. Wells, deputy sheriff, and is being held for attempted burglary. It is believed he is a member of a desperate gang of Los Angeles criminals.

Municipal Golf Course

PASADENA, Feb. 1.—A municipal golf course is probable here, following approval by Chamber of Commerce directors of a report from the committee on municipal and county affairs. The report plans a club of 1000 members, contributing $25 each, the total of $25,000 to be turned over to the city and applied toward constructing the course. The City Directors will be asked to put the golf course issue on the ballot for the next general election, when the people will be asked to vote an additional $125,000 for the completion of the course and erection of the clubhouse.

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 1.—Harbor police and prohibition officers today scoured the waterfront for further evidence of the existence of a vast rum-running organization with liquor-carrying ships off the California coast, following the seizure of forty-six cases of Scotch whiskey in a boat house and the arrest of Elias Zibla. Zibla is said to have declared he got the liquor from a ship lying fifty miles off the coast. Value of the liquor was placed at $5,000.

CONFESSIONS OF A BABY

How I Am Lifted

I am six months old now and I am beginning to get fairly good control of my wobbly head. All babies' heads are heavy and big in proportion to the rest of their bodies, and while I am an exceptional baby in many ways, so my loving friends and relatives tell me, I am no exception in this.

Because of the weight of our heads, and because we have so little muscular control up to six months, mamas and all those who lift us must bear that point in mind.

I will tell you how my mamma lifts me—and Daddy and Grammie and Aunt Sue, and anyone who is given that great responsibility of picking me up does the same. It gives me the utmost confidence; I know my precious head is not going to snap back and possibly hurt my precious neck.

Mamma raises my legs with her right hand, then she lays the palm of her left hand under my back with her fingers extended under my head and neck. In this way, you see, my spine, neck and head all are supported, and there is no pressure upon my chest or abdomen, as there would be if I were grasped around the body under the arms. Mamma always remembers that my little bones are rather soft and pliable and she keeps it in mind.

I will be lifted this way until I am able to support my own head and back very steadily. I am beginning to be able to do that now, at six months, but Mamma will lift me this way until I am seven or eight months old, at least.

Then she will lift me by grasping me under the arms. She will never lift me by suddenly grasping me by the wrists or hands, because it is too easy to dislocate my shoulder or elbow joints, or to cause a separation between the heads and shafts of my arm bones.

Now I will tell you how I am carried. Mamma carries me part of the time on her left arm and part of the time on her right. She does this because babies that are always carried in one position, or always sit or lie in one position, are apt to develop unsymmetrically—and if there's anything I want to be, it's a regular baby.

Now I am going to stop talking and let Doctor answer some mamas' questions. Au revoir, mamma dears.

A. SOCKUMS.

Answers to Mothers
"Dear Doctor:—I have gained so much benefit from your articles in bringing up my last baby that she is a fine healthy child now, thanks to you. I am not the only one who has benefited. I have several friends here who join me in blessing you for your advice."

"When can I begin to give my baby cod liver oil and orange juice?"
Orange juice may be given in the second month, beginning five drops in water and increasing a few drops every other day until two tablespoonfuls are taken by the fourth month. Later more than this can be given. After baby gets used to the orange juice you can begin the cod liver oil. Begin with two or three drops and increase to five or ten drops unless she has rickets, when she can take one teaspoonful or more.

Not all physicians give cod liver oil as a routine but one eminent pediatricist of New York tells me that he is now giving small doses of cod liver oil to all of his babies just as regularly as he gives them orange juice.

Cod liver oil can be looked upon as a food rather than as a medicine, a food that is very high in the anti-rachitic vitamins.

Mrs. Z.:—Your baby should not be urged to walk. He'll be more than willing to do so as soon as his muscles and bones are strong enough. Usually, the first attempt to walk is seen in the 12th or 13th month, but many children do not attempt to walk until later. Do not use any of the contrivances for teaching children to walk.

Tomorrow:—Answers to Correspondents.

My Dear Followers:—When sending for material which we offer you, please remember to enclose a stamped envelope bearing your full name and address. The pamphlet on reducing and gaining is the only one for which you must enclose four cents in stamps extra. Address your letters to me in care of this paper. Make them as brief as possible, not over 200 words, and type or write them legibly. Please sign your name as evidence of good faith—we will not use it in any way. Remember it is impossible for me to diagnose for you or to answer you personally. I appreciate very much the beautiful letters you send me and regret it is impossible to give you individual advice. The questions you ask will be answered in the column as soon as possible, if they are of general interest. Don't forget the s. a. s. c. if you expect me to send you the information I have offered.

Upon the request of Reader Friends I am publishing the following practical French recipes:

French Peas: Use either canned peas or parboiled peas. Put one quart of them into a saucepan with one tablespoon of water and one tablespoon of butter. Add two medium-size peeled and finely-chopped onions which you have previously par-boiled, a teaspoon of chopped parsley (if you have it) one-half teaspoon of sugar, a pinch of salt, a dash of pepper and six pieces of bacon which have been fried almost to the crisp point and then broken up. Now barely cover these ingredients with boiling water, place over a brisk fire and let come to the boiling point; let simmer 12 minutes, then add another piece of butter, a generous lump—and serve at once.

Baked Cauliflower: Boil a cauliflower in salted water till tender, drain well, and place it in a baking dish; season with salt, pepper and a dash of nutmeg, then pour over it the following sauce:

Bechamel Sauce: Melt four tablespoons of butter (heaping) in a saucepan, add three tablespoons of flour, stir smooth, then add one and one-half pints of sweet milk and let come to the boil, stirring constantly. Now draw the pan to the back of the stove, and add three tablespoons of minced cooked ham. Season with salt and pepper to suit taste and let boil again for several minutes. Strain before using.

Anchovy Toast: Butter a piece of hot toast, sprinkle it generously with mashed hard-boiled egg-yolk, then lay canned anchovies across it closely together, and serve at once (the parsley may be omitted).

Fish Salad: Bone and remove all the skin from some cold boiled fish (either turbot, sole or cod, preferably) then cut up nearly as possible into small pieces of even size. To two cups of this dried fish allow one large cold boiled potato and slice it thinly. Mix it with the fish and peas, then moisten all with French dressing. Sprinkle with two tablespoons of minced raw onion, stir the ingredients gently together (so as not to break the potato pieces) and serve on crisp lettuce.

PAYS $33,000 FOR STRADIVARIUS

Efrem Zimbalist Collects Violins As a Hobby

Efrem Zimbalist surrounded by his collection of violins and (insert) his $33,000 fiddle

NEW YORK, Feb. 1.—All the rules for "hobbies" are violated by Efrem Zimbalist, famous violinist. One's hobbies are supposed to be totally unrelated to one's vocation. A pugilist, for example, may have for his hobby the collection of butterflies, and it is not ridiculous for a lawyer to find an emotional outlet in collecting sea shells. But the hobby of Zimbalist, violinist, is collecting violins.

He is considered to have the finest private collection of the instruments in the world. The Kohinoor of the array is the "Titian" Strad, for which he paid $33,000. It is probably the most extraordinary fiddle in the world.

Zimbalist's collection is rivaled by that of A. Waddell, a sausage maker in Glasgow, Scotland, who does not play the precious stringed instruments he possesses, nor will he allow any artist to use them.

The instrument, which gets its name because its mellow glow is like the color of a Titian canvas, was made in 1715 by Stradivari, the greatest of violin makers, but it was never played until Zimbalist set bow to it here.

Tenderly Zimbalist brought it across the Atlantic (he obtained it in Paris after many hours of haggling) with it constantly at his side, encased in a life preserver.

The town of Cremona, in Italy, today goes sleepily about its business, quite unaware of its former importance to the art of music; but in the seventeenth century the city enjoyed, with the cultured of Europe, a reputation quite equal to any of the art centers of Italy.

In Cremona lived Nicolas Amati, the most celebrated maker of violins in Europe; and in his shop worked two youths, Andrea Guarneri and Antonio Stradivari, whose names were destined to become synonymous with the finest achievements of the violin maker's art.

In the year 1680, young Stradivari set up, in the Piazza San Domenico, his own workshop, and proceeded to turn out stringed musical instruments differing in quality and design from the work of his master. It was here the world's most perfect violins were to be made.

Violin making, since the death of Stradivari, has ceased to be an art; and the failure of subsequent makers to achieve an instrument to compare with a "Strad" in beauty of color, tone or design has led to the belief that the material with which the old masters worked is no longer available.

That the timber they used has ceased to grow in Italian forests; that the varnish was made by a secret process now entirely forgotten. This is, of course, absurd, experts say. The pine forests of the Trentino are not less flourishing than they were 200 years ago; and as for the varnish, the supremacy of the old was due rather to conscientious skill in the mixing of the ingredients and an unburied application to the wood.

On the Spur of the Moment

By ROY K. MOULTON

THE WISE GUY
Some years ago, in Joplin, Mo., There lived one Hercules Hacken.

Who bought, by heck, of cards a deck

And thought he'd learn to stack 'em.

By I. C. S. it was, I guess, He learned to hide an ace, A spade to slip from cuff or hip

With studied skill and grace. He noticed where the county fair Was held at Fort Cassillon;

He ups and goes. "Two bits for shows. Come in and win a million."

This stuff was old; the folks were cold.

They said, "You want to fool us," "I'll have to blow," thought he,

"and go Seek victims more credulous."

A freight he hopped that only stopped To hit Barthold's statue.

"This town fer me," said Here, and "Gee,

Old girl, here's lookin' at you."

He parked his stand along the

Of Coney by the sea.

He barked out loud to catch the crowd,

The Wise Guys; you and me.

They stood in lines to spend their dimes

With Here, of Joplin, Mo.

The folks were tame, his arm went lame

From counting all the dough. His game went strong, and so ere long

This middle western guy Had made the cash

For speed and splash In old New York, N. Y.

"Some day I'll go to Joplin, Mo., The finest town that there is."

Says Here, "although for easy dough,

New York is sure the berries."

—O. J. Heintze.

BEAUTY CHATS

Most forms of freckles are easily cured. Here, for instance, is a formula which has been tested successfully for many years:
Citric acid (lemon).....3 drams
Hot water.....11 ounces
Borax.....2 drams
Red rose petals.....1 ounce
Glycerine.....2 ounces

The acid and the borax are dissolved in water, the petals added and the whole left for an hour. Pour it into a jelly bag and let the mixture drip for twenty-four hours. Take the clear part and add the glycerine.

If you buy these ingredients separately, to make the formula at home, be very careful about the glycerine you get. It must be pure. The market is full of impure varieties, but these should be avoided. Pure glycerine is one of the most valuable beauty preparations and it is a solvent for coloring matter, hence its value for sunburn and freckles. It softens the skin and bleaches it. It is antiseptic. It stops itching and soothes irritation. But it only does this if it is pure. If it is impure it is too drying and generally harmful. It is, in fact, the chief reason why cheap beauty preparations should be avoided.

A still simpler freckle lotion is made of one ounce of glycerine, one ounce of peroxide of hydrogen and one ounce of witch hazel. This is most effective if applied at night and allowed to dry into the skin. In addition to these two, there are any number of freckle lotions containing a complicated number of chemicals which cannot be made up at home. Some of these are good, some bad. A safe test is the price and the character of the shop which sells them. A good shop will not sell harmful preparations.

We are speaking now of all-the-year-round freckles which cannot be prevented by cold creaming the skin before exposure to sunlight.

the bag and contents take the place of a washcloth. In this way the pores get about as much of the meal as is proper. If you use tincture of benzoin instead of the powdered oatmeal, you will have to add this to your rinse, and the amount would be about a drop or

Where the Railroad Dollar Goes

Practically all the money the railroads take in is immediately put back into circulation. Railroads do a large volume of business on a narrow margin of net income. Out of every dollar earned from operation by the railroads of the United States, there was absorbed in 1922, by

Wages and Salaries.....	44.4 cents
Fuel.....	9.4 "
Other operating and maintenance expenses (including such items as rails and ties, loss and damage).....	25.6 "
Taxes.....	1.5 "
Net Operating Income.....	13.7 "

100.0 "

Out of this 13.7 cents of net operating income, 12.2 cents went for interest on bonds and other fixed charges, leaving 1.5 cents for stockholders. Adding 6.9 cents of income from outside sources, net corporate income was 8.4 cents, of which 4.9 cents was paid in dividends, leaving 3.5 cents available for appropriations and surplus.

Gross earnings of the railroads in 1922 were $1,567,000,000 more than in 1917. This $1,567,000,000 and more too, was immediately paid out again, as follows:

$918,000,000 in added wages to railroad employees
135,000,000 in added cost of coal, mostly miners' wages
122,000,000 for additional taxes
500,000,000 additional for materials and supplies largely representing wages

The stockholders and bondholders of the railroads got none of the increase.

It is significant that good times are always coincident with heavy buying on the part of the railroads and that bad times are periods of light railway purchases.

The Union Pacific System is one of the most important enterprises west of the Missouri River. Its nearly 50,000 employees, and their families, constitute a buying power which is the main reliance of many businesses. The purchases of the Union Pacific System from firms located on the System, or which have offices on our lines, aggregate millions of dollars each month.

The railroads are planning to spend hundreds of millions of new money during 1924 to better serve the public.

"Our transportation movement during 1923 is the outstanding industrial accomplishment of the year. The waste of the year 1920 with its car shortages, its derangements of price levels, stoppage of industry, probably amounted to not less than a billion of dollars, and the American people and no economic fabric could have stood that loss that did not have a total income in excess of sixty billions. One great contribution to the business stability of the past year has been the fact that we have had a free and regular and orderly movement of transportation."—From address by Secretary of Commerce Herbert C. Hoover, January 9, 1924.

UNIQUE BUSINESS REGION PLANNED

'Rossmoyne Towne' Will Adhere to Old World Style in Architecture

The establishment of a commercial and business center that will serve the needs of the residents, present and future, of Rossmoyne, has been launched by the Haddock-Nibley Company, sub-dividers of the immense tract of that name, according to Lon J. Haddock, and grading work has already been started on the streets of the district, which is to be called "Rossmoyne Towne."

Rossmoyne Towne will be a happy blending of a unique and distinctive style of European architecture that will recall to those who see it the streets of old world cities, and prospective builders in the little city will be required to adhere to the style that has been adopted by Haddock-Nibley Co., in order that the harmony of the entire project may be unbroken by any harsh or discordant note.

The new town will be located just above the junction of Verdugo road and Canada boulevard and will cover an area of approximately ten acres. Starting from both Canada boulevard and Verdugo road, two streets will swing in to meet the main street of Rossmoyne Towne, a sixty foot thoroughfare that will run up to Kirby Canyon road, and the stores and other places of business will face on the two boulevards as well as on the main street of the town itself.

Draw From Large Area

Not only will the stores of Rossmoyne Towne serve the residents of Rossmoyne itself, but other people from Verdugo Woodlands and Sparr Heights will, it is predicted, find the commercial establishments that are to be founded there a remarkable convenience and one that will save them many trips to regions farther away.

Rossmoyne Towne is located a short distance north of the Egyptian Temple in which Haddock-Nibley Co. make their headquarters at the tract, right at the mouth of Verdugo Canyon, and the pre-opening sale is scheduled to take place on Sunday, when it is assured that a brisk demand for preferred sites on the town-site will be manifested.

Forming, as it will, the only commercial district in that entire region, Rossmoyne Towne will, according to its founders, satisfy the needs of a large and steadily growing population, and the restrictions that will be thrown around the buildings to be erected there will make it one of the most striking settlements in the entire Southland and in keeping out exact spot and as we were looking a native girl prostrated herself and kissed it.

Christ's Birthplace.
"A few feet away to the right is the manger, curtained and adorned in like manner. In all the changes of time and circumstance it is hard for most of us to believe that there is much chance for these to be exact places, but it is certain that not far from these places, somewhere, He was born who has done more to transform this world than all other men who have lived in it and whose kingdom is many times larger than that ever ruled by an earthly monarch.

"The tombs of 'Jerome' and others are shown nearby, and adjoining the church, under the same roof, the Franciscan fathers have a hospice and other property. We were invited to dine with them and had a splendid course dinner, splendidly served. At 9 o'clock we joined a company of English church people from here who go down every Christmas and we sang carols with them in a courtyard of the church for about an hour.

"It was mighty chilly, but the sky had cleared and the full moon was shining, to our delight. As we started into the church about 10 o'clock the view of the old town from the hillside before us was a picture never to be forgotten.

"We got into the church just in time to see 'The Procession,' led by the 'Patriarch of Jerusalem,' and we secured good seats in the packed church, remaining to the mass until after midnight. We couldn't stay till the conclusion of it, so reached here about 1 o'clock in our auto, which we had held there. It was very cold, but the wife has had no ill effects.

Real Christmas Dinner

"There was no demonstration of note here on Christmas day, most of the big celebrations being at Easter time. Our hotel served us a splendid English Christmas dinner, including turkey and plum pudding, the first of the real article I had ever eaten. It's good.

"On Wednesday, with the fine old Scotch couple from New Zealand, whom I have mentioned, we had a donkey ride clear around outside the walled city, stopping at the different 'pools' on the way.

The first was at the 'Pool of Bethesda,' where the lame man had tried in vain to get into the water at the time when it was blessed, and was healed by Christ.

"Opposite this place is a Catholic church from the time of the Crusaders, which has been rescued from debris, which entirely covered it to a depth of 35 or 40 feet. It is of fine construction. Near the pool is a commemorative building in which is a panel of inscription in each of ninety languages from the Sanskrit to our own, of the Bible description of this healing.

"The so-called pool is away below this level and is undoubtedly the original spring in the rock, although the pool is no longer seen. This small tunnel in the rock extends for a long distance below the 'Pool of the Virgin Mary,' where the natives also go for their water and girls bearing large cans on their heads are constantly going up and down the stone steps which lead down to it.

"Farther on is the 'Pool of Siloam,' which is made immortal by the healing of the blind man. There is a small monument or turret at one corner of this open space, which can be seen from far above in Jerusalem, and also from Gethsemane and the Mount of Olives. There is now no pool there, either, only the cleft in the rock, whence water is secured. But it is undoubtedly the original source of the pool."

In his next letter, to appear at an early date in The Glendale Evening News, Mr. Kirk will continue this description.

Find check enclosed for "Direct Action" gas range. My wife is more than pleased with her purchase, the stove is one of her best investments, and makes cooking a pleasure, and does things almost uncanny. She put her Christmas fruit cake in the oven in the evening, regulated the temperature on the "Lorain Regulator" marked "very low"; went to bed, awakened in the morning to find her cake all done and as pretty as could be. It certainly seems fine to have a stove that works while one sleeps. Needless to say we are pleased.

EAGLE ROCK

OXY PUPIL WINS
C. OF C. $25 PRIZE

Essay Extolling Community Award By Judges to Jerome Lindquist

Jerome Lindquist, an Occidental college student living at 2059 Ridge View avenue, has been awarded the $25 prize offered by Chairman H. G. Warren of the Chamber of Commerce publicity committee for the best essay of a specified length, extolling the community.

The second prize, offered by President O. J. Root of the chamber, went to Mrs. Clara S. Ellis. The essay submitted by Mrs. C. Y. Young was considered even better than the prize winners, but was over the specified length and therefore ineligible. Walter L. Mann likewise wrote a splendid essay but failed to confine himself to the allotted space.

The judges also wish to make honorable mention of the contributions of Mrs. P. W. Palmer and Miss Beulah Warren, who won third and fourth place, respectively, in the contest.

On behalf of the publicity committee, Mr. Warren extends to all who competed a hearty vote of thanks and points out that all contestants, whether or not they were prize winners, should rejoice in the fact that something from their essays will find itself into the new pamphlet being prepared by the Chamber of Commerce for wide distribution, and wherein the glories of the "Homeland" will be set forth in glowing detail.

That Chinese New Year dance held at the Women's Twentieth Century clubhouse Saturday night, January 26, was a gay affair, from the five-piece orchestra to the large number of members and friends present. The committee in charge reports through Mrs. A. R. Rose that the dance was a financial as well as a social success. These dances are open to the public.

Hanson Puthuff, well-known artist who lives at 5161 North College View avenue, has been elected a member of the famous Salmagundi club in New York, one of the oldest and most exclusive art clubs in America.

June Terry Pickrell of San Diego will give an evening of Barrie's plays Tuesday, February 5, at her mother's home, 5257 Windermere avenue. The benefit of the Congregational church. There will be a musical program as well.

Ground will soon be broken for the new St. Dominic's school at the corner of Merton and Maywood avenues, and it is believed the building will be completed by August, ready for the September enrollment.

B. and P. Women Notes
The next meeting of the physical education section of the Business and Professional Women's club will be 7:30 o'clock the night of Monday, February 4, in the kindergarten room of the Eagle Rock school. Miss Muriel Gardner is the director of this section.

The Spanish section will continue to meet, the next gathering to be the night of the second Tuesday in February.

Mrs. E. D. Snow, president of the B. and P. Women's club, states that the next section will have some changes to announce in the near future.

HELENA, Mont., Feb. 1.—With 100 per cent health conditions prevailing in Helena, and vicinity for several months, lack of patients threatens to close St. Peter's hospital, unless trustees of the institution are able to replenish its finances through substantial cash contributions. St. Peter's is the only Protestant hospital in the city. The other hospital, St. John's, is a Catholic institution and has not been overtaxed with patients for several weeks.

King Alfonso has announced that he will race his horses under the name of the Duke of Toledo and that he will probably enter them in several of the English classics.

BURBANK

PLAN TO HASTEN
WORK ON HIGHWAY

Riverside Drive Association To Rush Improvement Of Scenic Route

Riverside drive is not materializing fast enough for a certain progressive and aggressive valley group, who have organized the Riverside Drive Improvement association, to promote the progress of this much needed highway along the west bank of the Los Angeles river.

Daniel Bakman of Lankershim has been chosen to head the new body, with O. J. Renfrew of Lankershim, secretary, and William Klump of Burbank, treasurer.

Upon investigation, this association has learned that practically all the needed right of way for the proposed boulevard has been secured and that the chief obstruction still in the way of the improvement is the unsatisfactory flood control situation along the course of the Los Angeles river.

This flood control work is now under way but is progressing very slowly and pressure will probably be brought to bear by the Riverside Drive Improvement association to hasten it, as they are working under the inspiration of a vision of a completed scenic boulevard that will be one of the chief avenues of inlet and egress to and from Los Angeles and the San Fernando valley.

Get $40,000 For Block
The J. L. Smith building at the corner of San Fernando boulevard and Palm avenue has been sold by W. A. Thompson of Burbank to Los Angeles interests for $40,000.

Coming fast on the announcement of the transfer of the Andrews deal, this new large business deal further indicates the rapidity with which boulevard frontage is turning in this city. The northeast corner of Fourth street and Verdugo avenue is reported by Arthur L. Holgate to be sold to a party who will erect on the site a new business block.

Many Graduate
A total of fifty-eight eighth grade pupils have received their diplomas and advanced from the John Muir building to the High school, to continue their education.

Frank Ross and Leonard Walker held the highest ranks in the class, Principal E. B. Thomas announced. The latter boy is the only member of the class born in Burbank.

A banquet was tendered the pupils at the Florence cafe, at which place cards were hand painted by Frances Campbell and Eleanor Brooks.

Norway's Dry Laws
May Be Repealed
CHRISTIANIA, Feb. 1.—Norway is becoming tired of prohibition.

Anti-prohibitionists claim their campaign has been so successful during recent months they are practically certain their bill to abolish prohibition will be passed at the coming session of the Storting.

The Conservatives, a large proportion of the Agricultural Party and several Communist members have swung round against a continuance of the "dry" laws and are certain to support the "antis" bill.

The bill is further regarded as a necessity if the Government wants to balance its budget, it being argued that in the present economic circumstances it will be impossible to increase direct and indirect taxation, while the additional revenue required could be easily raised by restoring the liquor traffic, which would yield forty million kroner annually in taxation.

Village Is Populated Only by Old Timers
LONDON, Feb. 1.—Sutton Waldon, a remote and sleepy village in Devon, claims the record for longevity, and the combined ages of its inhabitants make a census return look insignificant.

Out of a total population of about 150 the village boasts that thirteen of its members are over eighty years of age, six are over ninety, and one has passed his hundredth birthday.

Its oldest inhabitant still does work on a farm and enjoys an occasional omnibus ride.

By F. A. GRAHAM
Of The Evening News Staff.
This yarn is supposed to have two, or maybe three, points to it. First, comes something a little different in the run of hold-up stories in these days of hard boiled summer; second, there is something in a name, in spite of that wise crack made long ago.

Valley (Shorty) Jones is an industrious citizen of the city of Angels. He opines that the name comes from the number of killings made there by bandits. Anyway, Shorty is what they call an average citizen, hard working in his pursuit of life, liberty and a flivver of his own. He has a girl, or maybe two, in Los Angeles and friends in Tijuana and visits both as often as they will stand for it.

Shorty's Grievance
Shorty has a grievance. He and his girl were held up and robbed the other night, on one of the Angel city's most prominent streets. The two of them were sitting in the flivver in front of the girl's home and two men drove up in a big hack. One of them said "All right, now, don't make any noise and here, over what you've got." Whereupon he introduced the couple to a view of what appeared to be the open end of a rain barrel. Here is where the unusual element enters. The men took what Shorty hauled out of his pockets, including a watch, but left the girl severely alone. In fact, it is to be feared that they snubbed her and she feels terrible about it. But the bandits not only refused to molest the lady but one of them politely inquired of Shorty about his watch. Was it a keepsake? Upon being assured that it was, the polite bandit handed it back and they drove away. They added $40 to their spending money by the hold-up.

Shorty was on the job as they drove away and took the number of the machine. Then he rushed to a phone and called the police station, where a voice told him to come in and make a report. Arriving at the police station, the desk man, or whatever he is, languidly looked at the number of the car used by the bandits and yawned: "That's the seventh hold-up reported on those guys tonight. Ho-hum, it certainly is a dull evening," or words to that effect. Let us not repeat what Shorty said, but part of his story says there were three or four police machines in front of the place and from the noise in back of the office there were a number of officers lounging about. Nobody got excited about the seven robberies, apparently.

Sleuths Get Busy
Two days later the papers come with headlines a foot high telling of a robbery of the same nature, but the names connected with this one were of the kind that appear in the society section under all the pretty pictures. Is it a dull evening? It is not! There was $1600 involved and the people robbed were of the 400 and plenty of sleuths were out scouring the country for those robbers, according to the reports.

So, there are some polite robberies, and there is some thinking in a name. If you don't think so, ask Shorty Jones the next time he steams through Glendale on his way to Tijuana. He says those $40 were just as much or more to him than the whole $1600 to the other crowd. His money represented a new suit, which he had ordered at which still hangs in the tailor shop until a couple of more paydays roll around, while the $1,600 worth of jewels was only a drop in a bottomless bucket to the people with the names. If you should ask Shorty about it, be prepared for some strong language.

Barrie Has Recovered;
He's Able to Make Pun
LONDON, Feb. 1.—Sir James Barrie has recovered from his recent illness, as evidenced by his latest little joke that is being repeated in London clubs.

Barrie was attending a rehearsal of "What Every Woman Knows" and heard Godfrey Tearle give the line, "I know I'm embarrassing the government."

"Perhaps," interrupted Sir James, "you ought to say, 'I know I'm J. M. Barrieing the government.'"

A "Peterpanic" followed. Sir James is doing quite well with his London royalties despite the fact that he has written nothing new of late. He has four of his old plays now running to crowded houses in London, where revivals always seem to succeed. It is widespread in theatrical circles that Barrie is going to be married, who has become a well-known actress in London, take the leading role in his next new play.

Spendthrift Almost Extinct
Taxi Drivers Testify
In New York

By LES CONKLIN,
For International News Service.
NEW YORK, Feb. 1.—What has become of that grand old American institution, the free-spending, largess-distributing college boy who spent money faster than his father could earn it?

Where is that picturesque character, so long exploited in fiction and feature articles, who helped to support the families of hard-working taxicab drivers, waiters and stage doormen by his lavish distribution of tips?

The evidence at hand overwhelmingly indicates that he is no longer with us.

Confirmation of this sad state of affairs may be obtained from the people who are supposed to benefit from the extravagance of the generous college boy.

Charlie Spots 'Em
In a restaurant near the campus of Columbia University, in the heart of New York City, the Mecca of pleasure seekers and free spenders, there is an observant waiter called Charlie. The eating place is patronized by all classes of people what a stiff is—a guy who never leaves a tip. The only silver your college boy leaves on the table is the spoons, and he would make away with them if we gave him half a chance.

To make it worse, he doesn't tip even if he has a girl with him," continued the waiter in aggrieved tones. "Lots of men come in alone and don't remember the waiter. Your college boy fools around until his girl has left the table and then follows her without giving the waiter a tumble."

Taximen Complain
The waiter's estimate of college boys' generosity is strongly seconded by taxicab drivers.

"I have long given up hope of expecting a large tip from students," replied a grizzled driver
when interviewed on the subject.

West Rivals Old World Traditions, Is Claim

DENVER, Feb. 1.—That the "Old West"—popularly termed the "Wild West"—is as rich in the princely pomp of tradition and the glamour of chivalry as the Old World across the Atlantic, is the contention of Warren E. Boyer, former Denver newspaperman and now associated with the Denver Tourist Bureau, in a recent book,
"Vanishing Trails of Romance."

Boyer has spent many years in research work and has issued a delightful series of mythological, legendary and historical tales of the early West, including romances of the mysterious Toltecs and Aztecs, Cliff Dwellers in New Mexico, the early-day Indians and of the blazed trails of the "pioneer American" settlers and cowboys of the ranges and plains of the Rocky Mountain country.

Boyer's collection of historic fictional romances includes many gripping stories on love and adventure of the Spaniards and Frenchmen who were outstanding

BURGLARS STAGE FIVE ROBBERIES

Homes Raided During Absence of Owners; Jewelry And Money Are Taken

Five burglaries, all committed between 2 and 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon were reported to Chief of Police John D. Fraser early last night.

The homes ransacked were those of C. H. Hough, 202 West Elk avenue; H. E. Harper, 124 East Elk avenue; Mrs. Johnson, 110 East Chestnut street; R. W. Bailey and Mrs. Bender in an apartment court at 126 East Elk avenue. In each case the occupants were away during the afternoon and the burglary was discovered upon their return around 6 o'clock.

The thieves evidently were after jewelry and money, as no clothing was reported missing from any of the places entered. The loss, which will be quite heavy, has not been fully tabulated yet, only a partial list being submitted to the police.

Jewelry is stolen Mrs. Bender reports losing two $20 and one $10 bill; Mrs. Johnson one gold pin bar, set with eight pearls, a watch and other jewelry, the property of a woman who was staying with her; Mrs. Hough, a woman's Waltham wrist watch; Mr. Bailey a diamond lavalliere, two breastpins, a sunburst, a gold watch and a Mr. Harper a wedding ring.

Detective Sergeant Charles P. Blake and Officer H. A. Stanford, who investigated the robberies, reported that in each case the intruder gained entrance by the use of a pass key.

"The work is evidently that of one or two men who do not know

Pupils of Glendale Ave. Intermediate School Are Presented With Diplomas

Seventy-four boys and girls of the Glendale Avenue Intermediate school last night received the final mark of having made good in the Glendale city schools when David J. Hibben, president of the Board of Education, presented them with their diplomas. This commencement marked for them a milestone in the course of preparation for the journey through life and was also the formal dedication of the beautiful new auditorium recently completed at the school plant.

Guests who occupied seats upon the stage with Principal Norman Whytock were Mrs. Ethel Flood Moyle, who was the speaker of the evening; David J. Hibben and Superintendent R. D. White. The class was seated in the front section of the auditorium.

The excellent program was opened with "The Connecticut March" by the school orchestra, directed by Miss Elsa Breneman, the class marching in to be seated.

A second selection, "Rays of Gold," Wheeler, by the orchestra, was followed by "Flag of Flags," sung by the boys' glee club. A piano solo, "Second Hungarian Rhapsody" (Liszt), was played with fine expression by Orma Mewbourne.

Check for Curtains At the close of the fitting presentation speech made by the class president, William Chamberlin, the class memorial was presented to Principal Norman Whytock, in the form of a check for $175.

"The value of jewelry," they said, "in some places cheap jewelry was taken while that of greater value was not touched. All burglaries were committed between 2 and 5 o'clock and were evidently the work of the same parties, as the territory covered is a very small one."

MOVING DAY FOR G. U. H. S. PUPILS

Bid Farewell to Old Plant on Harvard Street; No Time Will Be Lost

The final leaf in another chapter of the book of Glendale's school history was turned last night when pupils of the tenth, eleventh and twelfth grades bid goodbye to the Union High school on Harvard street, to reassemble Monday morning for the new semester in the magnificent new building on East Broadway, recently completed at a cost of nearly three quarters of a million dollars.

Doubtless many will carry with them a feeling of regret that they will not be permitted to finish their high school courses in the old plant which has been turned out so many men and women that have won fame, honor and respect in the realms of trade, commerce and art. But this regret will be assuaged by the joy that they have provided for their use one of the finest educational institutions in California.

Registering Today Another step forward in the path of progress has been taken. Another building has been outgrown. Students of the upper classes took home their report cards yesterday for the last time from the old building. Today they are registering for the courses they will pursue in the new building. Fifteen years ago the same scene was being enacted with the present building, now obsolete as far as capacity goes, occupying the place that the Broadway school does today. "What will it be ten years from now?"

The move will be made during the week end and no time will be lost from the school calendar. Everything is in readiness to open studies promptly Monday morning, due to the efficiency with which the board and the members of the faculty under Principal George U. Moyle have engineered the transfer.

Thirteen Graduate Thirteen students completed their work at the High school yesterday. There will be no formal commencement, the class deciding to wait until the regular graduation in June. The pupils graduating are Winifred Allen, Beatrice Bacon, Beatrice Bolen, Vera Bowler, Villa Botsford, Ruth Goldsborough, Lyle McAllister, L. E. McQueen, Gladys Peckham, Alice A. Pratt, Helen Robinson, Olive Swenson and Donald Tyler. A large percentage of the class will continue their studies in college.

Wednesday evening in the High school cafeteria the incoming and outgoing cabinet officers of the high school were the guests at a banquet served by the girls of the domestic science department under the supervision of Miss Ellen J. Hanson. The tables were appropriately decorated in red and black and a delicious four course turkey dinner was served. Speeches were made by a Principal Moyle, Ronald West, retiring, and Howard Elliott, incoming student body president. Cabinet pins were presented to those entitled to them.

Resolution Passed by Local Post Favors Adjusted Compensation

A copy of the resolution recently adopted unanimously by the members of Glendale Post No. 127, American Legion, whereby they declare their staunch adherence to the policy of adjusted compensation as ratified at the National convention of the Legion held in San Francisco last year, was received yesterday by the editor of The Evening News. Copies have also been mailed to California representatives in Congress.

The action was brought on by the publicity gained by a so-called Anti-Bonus league, which has been formed in Los Angeles. A copy of the resolution was sent to this organization. The resolution follows:

"WHEREAS, Statements have been made by certain interests that many ex-service men do not favor adjusted compensation for all ex-service men; and

"WHEREAS, The Glendale Post No. 127 of the American Legion, Department of California, has a membership in excess of two hundred and fifty ex-service men who served the country in the recent World War; now therefore be it

"RESOLVED, By the Glendale Post No. 127 of the American Legion, Department of California, that it hereby indorses the proposed Adjusted Compensation bill now pending before Congress as endorsed by the National Convention of the American Legion held in San Francisco, California, in 1923."

HEARING ON WHEAT WASHINGTON, Feb. 1.—A hearing on the import duties on wheat and wheat products will open before the United States tariff commission on February 18, it was announced here.

SIDELIGHTS ON LOCAL AFFAIRS

Most Anything Liable to Happen in Glendale These Nice Days

By GIL A. COWAN
Of The Evening News Staff.
"It happened in Glendale" would make a fitting title for a series of incidents we have heard tell of the passing week. So we present the hodge-podge of humorous or humorous sidelights in the following paragraphs:

A South Brand boulevard shoe store, unlike most establishments of its kind, on Monday night threw out all empty boxes which had adorned the shelves. And it was so damp that no competitor could use them had they been found before the garbage man got there.

Glendale has been enjoying a glorious day the last few evenings. As the colored boy said, "De Lawd has been washing de air." And motorists have been pawing the air, or rather the windshield, in an effort to see their way around midnight.

A policeman paid $2.50 for having a watch repaired. Within five minutes from the time he took it from the jeweler's he lost it. Now he doesn't believe a pickpocket lifted it—but you never can tell.

Chief Fraser says a jury convicted a man of transporting liquor but released him on the charge of possessing it. This happened in police court, but perhaps the federal authorities will choose to prosecute him.

Now for a joke on the policeman. A Glendale woman waiting for a taxi cab had a man, claiming to be a policeman, the other night, offer to escort her home for 25 cents. However, he was not in uniform, and he didn't look worth two bits, she says.

We asked the night telephone operator at The Glendale Evening News office if she knew anything humorous. "Yes," she said, "my dog had its tail cut off today, but that isn't funny."

A Glendale mother-in-law told her husband she would crown him with a pitcher if he didn't stop talking. The daughter-in-law, recently from Europe, said, "You Americans do just as Charlie Chaplin pictures." And then to think the camera didn't catch the only real fight in which C. C. starred!

In visiting Glendale industries it is necessary to sample their products and commend them, of course. We visited a beverage plant, candy factory and bakery recently, but we haven't the need, we hope, to go up to Dr. Henry R. Harrower's laboratory for a few years to come.

Nevertheless we always are glad to see H. R. H., which doesn't mean His Royal Highness, even if the doctor is an Englishman by birth. We are most glad to hear him, the postmaster and mayor sing, separately preferred.

Two newcomers were found by the writer utterly exhausted yesterday afternoon after they had carried their valises for fifteen blocks trying to find a vacant room. They had a real thrill in a city of 50,000 not to find a hotel that could accommodate them. We handed them The Evening News classified for rent column and let them join in the chase.

Long Beach Employs Glendale Architect

George M. Lindsey, local architect, who collaborated with John C. Austin, Los Angeles architect, in the supervision of construction and drawing of plans for the new high school building on East Broadway, has been chosen by the Long Beach board of education to act in a similar capacity with Harvey H. Lockridge of that city in the construction of the first unit in Long Beach's $5,000,000 school building program.

The first unit will be a sixteen-room addition to the Whittier school at Seventeenth and Walnut streets.

Mr. Lindsey's appointment came unsolicited and is undoubtedly a recognition of the work he has done in connection with Glendale's new plant. He is busy today receiving the congratulations of his many friends in this city.

PRAYER IN PARLIAMENT

Members of all political parties may be found in attendance at the weekly prayer meeting held in the House of Commons, but the attendance, however, is seldom more than a dozen. The custom was started in 1832 and various members led the services which follow the Nonconformists' ritual.

Famous Naturalist Opens New Field to Lovers of California's Song Birds

Opening up a wonderful field that has been hidden hitherto from many of the residents of Southern California, Professor Alfred Cookman, A. B., M. S., the famous naturalist of the Polytechnic High school of Los Angeles, in the following article describes some of the beauties of the great main ranges that girdle and protect the valleys of the Southland, and tells of a few of the birds that make their habitat in the upper reaches of the mountain ranges, uncovering to the lovers of nature a wonderland that lies at their very door.

ALFRED COOKMAN, A. B., M. S., Polytechnic High School, Los Angeles, California. I was thinking that possibly a few of my notes on the Birds of the High Sierras might interest the readers of The Glendale Evening News. Have you ever climbed a high and lofty mountain? What was your impression of the majesty of that mountain? Did you suffer any great inconvenience and did you observe the birds, the flowers and the trees in your ascent to the summit? "Mountains are nature's towering sign-posts directing through the ages the migrations of restless people."

The mountains have more than once been characterized as the "backbone of the globe or of the continent," but one cannot think the simile other than misleading. Our globe has no more backbone than a ball of metal. A mountain-ridge is a bulge or break in the dome of masonry upheaved by a shrinkage in the earth's crust. The lateral pressure has produced the youthful range. They were pushed up as a wrinkle in the earth's crust and the beds of loose soil that lay above the rock were rolled back into the valley, leaving the ragged edges of the crust exposed to view.

Mountains are born. They pass the infant stage and reach a youthful period. The change of seasons and the passing of centuries and the "hammering forces" of erosion have developed the matured range. Old age dawns in majesty and mountains will die. Yes, our mountains are gradually wearing down. The change of seasons and the passing of centuries and the "hammering forces" of erosion have developed the matured range. Old age dawns in majesty and mountains will die. Yes, our mountains are gradually wearing down. The old world itself is dying.

Peaks Bring Rains The Alps, the Himalayas, the Rockies are the oldest and the most permanent of the earth's formations; and the "everlasting hills," the "eternal Alps" are the common figures of speech used about them. The lofty mountains

No one can truly appreciate the wonderful experience of mountaineering until you have climbed yonder peaks and gazed out over the vast expanse of rugged ravines, far up above the clouds, and then looked down into the valleys, as the cumulus clouds rise like vapor above you and see the orange groves, the cities and the blue Pacific stretched before your very eyes—a "checkerboard" of alluring colors and a consequence (Continued on page 6)

Chicken Pox Mars Society Marriage

LONDON, Feb. 1.—Chicken-pox—that disease which generally is only a mild annoyance for children—has brought grief to London society.

The society folk were all set for a gay wedding party at the marriage of Miss Jessie Carlos Clarke and Lord Arthur Butler, son of the Marquis and Marchioness of Ormonde, when chicken-pox fell to the lot of the bride-to-be.

Mrs. Carlos Clarke had to get busy at midnight, and she postponed the wedding, much to the disappointment of many who had stayed home from their night clubs in anticipation of a gay wedding party on the following day.

Milk fat is found in proportions ranging from 2.5 to 7 per cent.

There's a Reason

Only one thing takes people to a Chiropractor—the desire for better health. They surely must get it or they would cease to come or to send their friends and the Science of Chiropractic would cease to be. The reverse is true, however, and WHY? Because—

- 1—Chiropractic is fundamentally correct in its application to so called disease.
- 2—It is anchored to the rock of fact.
- 3—It operates co-operatively with Nature.
- 4—It has survived the acid test of persecution.
- 5—Chiropractic is certainly scientific.

KANSAS CAMPUS MYTH LAID BARE

Gridiron Hoax of 1899 Is Told by Brother of Star Player

By W. F. SULLIVAN
For International News Service.
KANSAS CITY, Feb. 1.—Often regarded as a campus myth and a mystery to the Kansas alumni for many years, the gridiron hoax of 1899 has been uncovered in its true light.

The story of how a tall, raw youth stepped out of the timbers into a football suit and with a few days' practice, knocked the Nebraska Cornhuskers silly, by smashing the line, had always been taken with a great degree of meriment and regarded like fiction tales of the current magazines.

The mystery developed immediately after the game. Instead of returning to the Kansas campus for the glory that was due him, as heroes are wont to do, the youth modestly, rather mysteriously, dropped from the limelight and had not been heard from since.

Fielding H. Yost was coaching the Kansas eleven in the fall of 1899 when a backward recruit by the name of Krebs was induced to don a football uniform and report for practice. Yost's critical eye, however, was not responsible for the youth's persistence, and he gave the recruit merely a passing glance.

"Ignored" By Yost
In fact, as the story goes, it was noticeable that Yost seldom passed his optics over in the direction of the awkward youth, who remained at practice under the encouragement of Dr. Nal-smith, now head of the physical education department at Kansas university.

Yost, it is said, presumably suppressed a loud guffaw when the name of Krebs was mentioned as a possibility to make the trip to Lincoln to battle the strong Cornhuskers; but, after considerable urging on the part of Dr. Nal-smith, Yost submitted and agreed to take Krebs along to "see the game."

Something, whether it was the change in atmosphere or the train ride, changed Yost's mind on that fateful day at Lincoln, Neb., in 1899, for he regarded Krebs in a different light when on the enemy's field. He chose Krebs as one of the eleven men to do battle and told the raw recruit to go in and give them all he had.

Smashed Huskers
The recruit did. Large of frame and with a courageous heart, the Krebs that Kansas followers saw at Lincoln was a different man, and he plowed through the line, tore open gaps in the Cornhuskers' defense, and, almost single-handed, brought victory for the Jayhawkers.

Then he disappeared. Yost made no comment, but joined in with the crowd of listeners. It was as much a mystery apparently to Yost as to others, but he did not elaborate on any versions he may have held.

But the story now has come to light, and Yost's reasons for silence are now obvious. The mysterious Krebs was a "ringer" brought to Kansas university by none other than his former football mate and college chum, Fielding H. Yost, who had to be "forced" to give the newcomer a chance to play.

Krebs' brother tells the truth of the story in a letter to Ellis Davidson, a graduate of Kansas in 1912, who made inquiries recently of the brother regarding it.

Mystery Bared
According to C. E. Krebs, brother of G. R. Krebs, the "mystery" man, Yost played his part well. In answer to a letter directed to an engineering company in West Virginia, Davidson received the following reply:

"In regard to playing football at the University of Kansas, I want to advise that my brother, G. R. Krebs, who is the president of our company, graduated at the West Virginia university in 1899. During his college course he was a member of the West Virginia football team and played for five years with said team, two years of which he spent with Coach Fielding H. Yost, playing side by side with him before he became famous.

"During the fall term of 1899 my brother entered Kansas university as a law student and acted in the capacity, as I was informed he did. As he was a personal friend of Yost before going to Kansas, Yost certainly played his part well."

Society Not So Keen Over Labor Regime

LONDON, Feb. 1.—Social London is awaiting with some trepidation the social functions of a Labor government.

Fashionable Mayfair hostesses are asking themselves whether the advent to power of the Labor Party will sound the death-knell of the famous brilliant political receptions that have been a feature of London's social life for several decades.

Both the Conservative Party and the Liberal Party have in the past entertained very lavishly at the town houses of prominent members of their parties; but the Labor Party, with its low finances and lack of great social lights, is an unknown quantity.

Even if Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald decides to hold receptions for his followers at Downing street, his choice of a hostess would be necessarily very limited.

He is a widower, and his eldest daughter is much too young for the responsibilities of a political hostess.

COMMENT That's All

Harry Is No 'Fall' Guy
He Stays 'Over There' Respect Lincoln's Name Indictments of Promoters
—By Gil A. Cowan—

Harry Sinclair, oil magnate, pleases to remain in Europe while there is a tempest in the Teapot Dome oil lease, it is reported today. As a millionaire he likely has no intention of allowing the lawyers in Congress to make a monkey of him by their questioning. Indeed, he has little thought as to who the "Fall" guy will be, so long as it isn't he. It may be Mr. Denby or Mr. Daugherty, or President Coolidge, or the office boy, it appears.

Sinclair will remain in London, where there is no Eighteenth amendment to the Magna Charta, where there are no questioning newspaper reporters such as we have in this country. He will likely be bereft of his naval oil reserve lands, but so will Edward Doheny. They will Fall together on that score, if anything happens.

There was a very significant paragraph in yesterday's accounts of occurrences in Washington. We quote a late dispatch in the International News Service report of Thursday:

"While the senate was in the midst of its debate over the resolution calling for Denby's retirement, President Coolidge slipped out of the White House unnoticed and walked about the city for three-quarters of an hour with Theodore Roosevelt, assistant secretary of the navy, as his companion. Returning from the walk, the president and young Roosevelt closeted themselves in the executive mansion."

You may have any conclusion you desire, but it looks as though the ghost of the late T. R. is walking. How Coolidge would like to have his courage at this hour? The president of these United States admittedly is in a pretty predicament, through no fault of his own.

It is also interesting to note statements from Secretaries Hughes, Hoover and Weeks, declaring that the question of the naval oil reserve leases NEVER WAS CONSIDERED by the Harding cabinet at meetings which they attended. We can readily believe it. Were Warren G. to rise in his grave and avow that "the deals were slipped through without his realization of the action taken," we could readily believe that, too; for there is no question but what the late president was victimized by his political friends.

People sometimes are too trusting. They place altogether too much confidence in certain people. They do not stop to investigate.

Graft and corruption, like vice, begin with the little things and gradually grow greater, it seems, until they are a horrible monstrosity in the eyes of the public, but not so big in the eyes of the grafter. Los Angeles has had the misfortune to pass through those lean years when many of its present BIG men resorted to methods that ill bespeak them in the hour of achievement.

Once the public loses confidence in any man or organization, there is little to be done. And the public is sometimes prone to overlook things until a crisis. Then it bestirs itself and exerts the crushing strength which splits cliques and clans asunder.

Certain Los Angeles people with guilty consciences, for the which harkens back to things which occurred a decade ago, in this sunny southland, may well be shuddering in their shoes. The public doesn't forget—not for a long, long time.

"Afford Due Respect to Mr. Lincoln's Name" is the plea of the Pasadena Star-News in a very timely editorial, in which we concur. It says:

"The gruesome double murder charged to Warren J. Lincoln of Illinois has been exploited much by saffron journals. This eccentric man asserts that he is related to Abraham Lincoln. The relationship has not been proven. It may be all a myth. Even though he may be a distant kin of the great man, the fact does not justify the offensive exploiting of Abraham Lincoln's name in connection with this crime. The mere fact of relationship—if it exists—should be mentioned only incidentally, and certainly should not be blazoned in glaring headlines. This is not good journalism. It is exaggeration and distortion. The chief item of news in this connection is that a double crime was committed; and that this certain man is accused of the crime. The fact that he claims kinship to a great man is only incidental."

Abraham Lincoln is not accused of the crime. He could not have had anything to do with it, even remotely. And yet, to read some headlines, one would be led almost to believe that the illustrious American was being dragged from the tomb to be held for a hideous double crime.

"This comment is made to bring out the offensiveness of sensational journalism and to deprecate its bad taste and its perniciousness. The effect upon the young and the unthinking is bad, to connect great names with crimes in this loose fashion."

Indictments by the federal grand jury are expected shortly to bring before the bar of justice a score of promoters in Los Angeles who will be charged with the misuse of the mails.

While the public should reserve judgment of those taken in the net until they have been proved guilty, there is no doubt but what altogether too enthusiastic advertising has been written regarding opportunities to invest in oil and other ventures.

First of all, advertising must

FRENCHMAN PLANS PACIFIC CONQUEST

Alain Gerbault of Tennis
Fame to Explore Isles Off Ecuador Coast

By HARRY R. FLORY.
For International News Service.
PARIS, Feb. 1.—Not satisfied with having already crossed the Atlantic alone in his eight-ton thirty-three-foot sailing boat, the "Firecrest," Alain Gerbault, French tennis star, is laying plans to sail from New York next Spring to explore hitherto unvisited islands of the Pacific.

The "Firecrest" is being repaired and refitted in New York for her second daring voyage. Meantime Gerbault, who recently returned to France on the steamer "Paris," is pursuing his other hobby, tennis, taking part in tournaments on the Riviera.

Gets Small Acklaim
Twenty thousand French boxing fans welcomed Georges Carpentier when he returned to Paris after his disastrous encounter with Jack Dempsey at Boyle's Thirty Acres, tens of thousands of persons watched the guillotining of "Blue Beard" Landru, who murdered twelve wives, while only five persons saw Gerbault at the Saint Lazare railroad station when he returned. Gerbault had battled the waves of the Atlantic alone for 102 days.

"It was the first time I was ever aboard a big liner," Gerbault said, "and I didn't feel quite at home. I felt that the 'Paris' machinery was replacing too much of the work of men and I felt lost without the other part of me—the 'Firecrest.'"

Then Gerbault revealed his new project of the Pacific voyage.

May Take Partner
"I will not try to break any records for speed," he said. "I am not pressed for time. I shall visit the islands which the big steamship routes don't touch. Only one thousand miles from the Panama Canal there are two islands belonging to Ecuador which the feet of civilized man have never touched. It is said they are inhabited by cannibals, but the 'Firecrest' will be armed."

Gerbault may take a partner on this second voyage, providing the partner is willing to take the necessary chances.

Gerbault has been awarded the cross of the Legion of Honor for his courageous exploit and it is expected that he will also receive from the Academy of Sports the Grand Prix of 1923, awarded each year to the Frenchman who has accomplished the most notable achievement in the field of sport.

Dago was a name originally given by sailors to Spaniards, Portuguese and Italians, and is said to be a corruption of the Spanish name Diego, equivalent to the English name of James or Jack.

EAGLE ROCK RECORD TURNOUT AT SCOUT RALLY

Plans for Anniversary Week
Keep Boys Keyed Up
to High Pitch

A Boy Scout rally at the Eagle Rock school, with free "movies" and a snappy program, produced a record turnout and keyed up the youngsters in preparation for Thursday night's big camp fire and weiner bake, which proved an immense success.

All of which is in preparation for "Anniversary Week," February 8 to 14, states Dr. C. M. Hensley, head of the organization department of the local Boy Scout committee. "During those days, scouting all over America will receive an added impetus and Eagle Rock is tuning up to tune in," he says.

Last Friday a number of local Scouts journeyed to the Biltmore Hotel, Los Angeles, to hear a talk by Dr. George Fisher, deputy chief Boy Scout officer of the United States.

Changes at Library
The Eagle Rock branch of the Los Angeles Public Library announces, through its librarian, Mrs. J. N. Gardiner, the following changes:

Miss Muriel Gardiner, having received her degree from the Southern Branch, U. of C., has resigned her position of junior attendant, following her appointment to the head of the Spanish department in a private Los Angeles girls' school. Miss Floy Drake of Glendale has been appointed to take her place.

Miss Laura Thompson, who has been doing reorganization work and cataloging, has been transferred to the Lincoln Heights library, as branch librarian.

The exhibition of Conrad Buff's paintings hung during December in the main gallery of the Exposition Park museum, will hang during February on the walls of the Hollywood Public Library, states Mrs. Gardiner.

Personal Mention
Among those who attended the dance at the San Gabriel Women's club last week were:

Mr. and Mrs. Edward W. Thompson, Mr. and Mrs. William Artman Sampson, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Fletcher, Mrs. Grace L. Sherwood of Eagle Rock, Mr. Rogers and Mr. and Mrs. Allen Frost of Santa Monica and Dr. and Mrs. Lamberson of Glendale. J. J. Broomall, flower wizard of Dahlia drive, is advertising Eagle Rock before the entire country with a two-page advertisement in the official publication of the Dahlia society.

CENTRAL AVE. PROPERTY OWNERS, ATTENTION!

A number of property owners on Central Avenue have examined the street as widened between Cypress and Los Feliz and have suggested that it might be well to set the curb back NOW while waiting for the condemnation proceedings on the ten-foot strip back of the sidewalk.

This means that the trees would all have to come out NOW, which is contrary to the understanding had with the property owners at the time the petitions were signed.

There is no desire on the part of anyone to abrogate this verbal agreement, but many arguments have been presented in favor of the move now.

In order to bring out all the arguments and have a full, free and frank discussion of the matter it is deemed advisable to call a meeting of the owners of property between Lexington St. and San Fernando Road (continuing on Central Ave.) therefore said property owners are requested to be present at the Old High School Auditorium on Harvard St. at 7:30 o'clock sharp, Wednesday evening, February 6, 1924. Meeting will close promptly at 9 p. m.

SOLDIER BONUS GETS HARD JOLT

Plan to Wipe Out $320,000, 000 Surplus Is Body Blow to Compensation

By GEORGE R. HOLMES
For International News Service.
WASHINGTON, Feb. 1.—The sudden decision of Republican leaders in Congress, not to make the hard-pressed taxpayer wait until next year for reduced taxation, but to make possible a saving of 25 per cent on his 1923 return, has given the soldiers' bonus the hardest blow it has yet sustained at the hands of the Sixty-eighth Congress. This was conceded today by even the most pronounced advocates of the bonus.

Secretary of the Treasury Mellon today gave his unqualified approval of the plan of making the reduction applicable to the 1923 incomes. Such a policy, he said, fits in with the administration's tax program.

The decision of the Republican leaders, if pushed to enactment, will wipe out the $320,000,000 surplus in the treasury. This huge amount of cash actually exists and would not have been affected by the tax reductions which Secretary Mellon proposed to start next year.

Urges Use of Surplus
Furthermore, this great surplus has been one of the principal talking points of the bonus advocates. They have pointed to it as proof that the government is in good financial condition and well able to provide adjusted compensation for ex-soldiers.

They have asserted that the bonus could be paid largely from this surplus and the taxpayers given necessary assistance at the same time by providing tax reductions to become effective with next year's returns.

A month ago bets of $50 could have been obtained around the lobbies of Congress that the bonus bill would pass this session over President Coolidge's veto. Today, for the first time, the bonus people were entertaining serious doubts of their ability to put it through.

Ability to pass it in both the Senate and House by large majorities on its first presentation was conceded even by its bitterest foes. But on all sides was heard today the prediction that not enough votes can be found to pass it over a veto when there exists no surplus in the treasury to finance the payments. While the surplus existed there was a chance; when the surplus disappears, as it will under the new Republican plan, the money to pay a bonus also disappears.

G. O. P. Jubilant
The only avenue of payment left in this situation would be special taxation or some sort of a bond issue, and it is not believed either plan can command sufficient votes to override a veto.

The Republicans were gleeful today over the probable political effect of their decision, which was taken without counsel with the Democrats. They plan to capitalize it immediately as a Republican achievement, accomplished while the Democrats were throwing mud balls at the Mellon plan.

YEAR TERM FOR PAINTED SHEIK

Kansas City Judge Scores
Youth Using Cosmetics
To Attract Girls

By W. F. SULLIVAN
For International News Service.
KANSAS CITY, Feb. 1.—Sheiks who spend their time in penciling their eyebrows and rouging their cheeks (they really do it) are "vags."

Municipal Judge M. J. Kilroy, in the Kansas City North Side Court, so held when Lee Ledford was brought before him and relieved of a bottle of brilliantine for the eye lashes and a jar of almond cream rouge.

The judge's opinion of the conduct of the man is that any male who spends his time in glossing his sideburns and rouging his cheeks to acquire false masculine pulchritude is none other than a vagrant, and meted out to Ledford a fine of $500. This means a year in jail for the "sheik" who was unable to pay the fine.

Girls Fall For Him
"No man can have time to use cosmetics and hold down a job," Judge Kilroy said in making his decree.

Ledford was arrested on the street by Sergeant Nat Aldridge, who noticed the former rolling his sheikish eyes and attempting to open conversation with girls passing by on the sidewalk.

Explaining to the judge, Ledford said he had been reading much of how the girls were raving about movie heroes and "sheiks" who use paint.

"I'd been having hard luck with the girls, so I thought I'd try a little 'make-up,'" Ledford said to the judge. "And you'd be really surprised how they fall," he added smilingly.

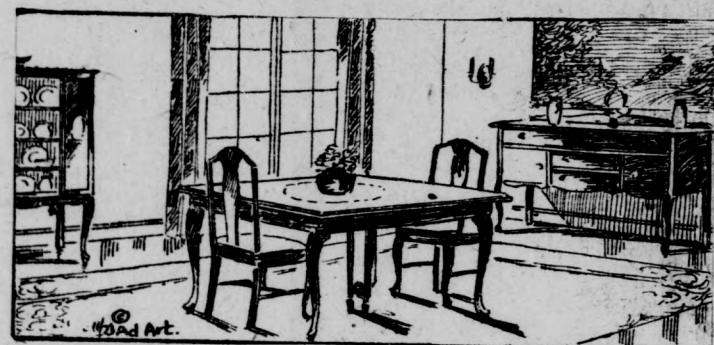

The smile faded a moment later when the "sheik" was adjudged a "vag."

Cancer Is Increasing Claims Specialist

PORTSMOUTH, Eng., Feb. 1.—"As civilization advances, so cancer advances," was the striking declaration of Dr. C. P. Childie, president of the British Medical association, when opening a cancer campaign in Hampshire. Until recent years, said Dr. Childie, the subject of cancer had been taboo. People had known about it, but had never spoken of it. As people lived in more comfort, had more science applied to their everyday lives, ate more civilized food and had not to struggle for existence as the savage had, so cancer increased. This was a remarkable fact, because other great killing diseases had been and were diminishing under medical care and science.

Exotic Plans to Dot Arizona Capitol Lawn

PHOENIX, Feb. 1.—The parol pine will be introduced into Arizona as an ornamental tree by Governor Hunt as a result of arrangements made with William J. O'Toole, minister to Brazil, for the shipment of several young specimens, which will be planted in the capitol grounds here.

The governor is also in receipt of a shipment of canna seeds from the Royal Botanical Gardens of Siam, these having been sent by his friend, Dr. Yai S. Sanitwongse, a cousin of the King of Siam, whom Governor Hunt met while acting as the United States Minister to Siam. These seeds will also be planted in the capitol grounds.

THE GLENDALE THEATRE

THE GLENDALE
"When Odds Are Even," a William Fox vehicle featuring William Russell, is the picture at the Glendale Theatre today, a romantic melodrama of unusual merit, displaying imagination in story and development.

William Russell's performance in this attraction is altogether in harmony with the artistic tone which is set by Director Flood. He is supported by Dorothy DeVore, a comely young actress who was formerly associated with Mack Sennett's bathing beauties.

The story is of an opal mine and of a rival company, that, attempting to purchase it, causes the hero to rush helter-skelter to the South Sea islands, where many beautiful scenes are filmed. In addition, five acts of standard coast-to-coast vaudeville are on the boards of the Glendale Theatre today and tomorrow, including novelty, dancing and musical numbers.

PERFECT CONTROL
In the electrical system, nuts and screws that hold the connections in place should be clean and be screwed tight, so that there is no possibility of their working loose, either through jarring of the car on the road or the swaying of the wires themselves.

THE GATEWAY

"The Green Goddess," voted the best picture in which George Arliss has yet been seen, continues at the Gateway Theatre today and tomorrow. Novel in plot and setting, with many intensely dramatic moments, it is a genuine thriller, yet bearing throughout the stamp of quality. Alice Joyce appears opposite the star, and the superlative cast also includes David Powell and Harry T. Morey.

Magnificent settings and wonderful costuming add to the general excellence. It is a big picture, done in a big way. Sceldom has anything been done on the screen to equal the mob scenes in which several thousand people appear. Sidney Olcott who directed "The Green Goddess" is deserving of no little praise for his deft handling of these mobs and subtle dramatic situations.

LEWIS PROUD OF BEING A BABBITT

American Author Delivers Shocking Lecture to Mayfair Club

LONDON, Feb. 1.—"I am a Babbitt, and I'm proud of it, because the Babbitts represent all that is typical of American life." This is what Sinclair Lewis told a large gathering of members of the American Women's club, in the heart of fashionable Mayfair. The voice may have been the voice of Babbitt, but no real live Babbitt would have dared go "a-Babbittin'" in the sartorial make-up affected by Sinclair for this occasion. He would have passed the lord chamberlain's test for admission into the royal enclosure at Ascot. He was de mode, as London knows it—wing collar, bow tie, black morning tailed coat, striped pants and very shined shoes. He might easily have been plucked straight from the bunch of Sabbathical strollers along Rotten Row. It was an all-women gathering, with the exception of the writer and two other blushing, fidgeting self-conscious males; and what Sinclair didn't tell those present about the way they misunderstood their Babbitt husbands didn't matter at all.

"Babbitt is a darned good guy," said Sinclair, going very red—"a real loving and lovable fellow, and I'm proud of him. He is America and stands for all that is best in us."

Babbitt "Unpleasant" And the women shuffled restlessly, for in her opening speech the lady president paid a glowing tribute to the artistry and genius of Mr. Sinclair Lewis for creating literature by writing about "such unpleasant people."

"Babbitt will do more," went on Sinclair, "to encourage American art and literature than any of his critics, who are pale, ascetic, spineless, posing impossible people wandering all over the art galleries of Europe; I've seen them in London, on the left bank of the Seine in Paris, and in Rome. They do every artistic center thoroughly and absorb so much culture and art that when they do return to America they recoil from the untutored, in-artistic Babbitts in horror."

"More art and literature will come from the Babbitts than from these dabblers in foreign art galleries. All artists from the old Florentine masters right up to Augustus John were all men of passion, natural and primeval. Surely Babbitt is natural and primeval. His critic isn't. To be passionate one has to work hard. Anti-Babbitts never work; it is an offense against their artistic consciences. They are so busy absorbing the culture of others that they haven't time to create anything for themselves. They are too affected to be natural, and as for being primeval—well, they just haven't the strength. They wouldn't know how."

Lauds Character "Now you know why I like Babbitt—his passionate, natural and primitive and a great worker, although a great talker; he is, in fact, America. He loves his home and his children. He would much rather be at home with his family than in a picture gallery, and who could blame him for that?"

"But there are one or two things not in Babbitt's favor; there's his wife. He ought to handle her better. Over here in Europe they seem to manage their wives better. How they do it I don't know. "Now Babbitt's wife is a great, pronounced leaning toward art. She would rather have her husband at an art gallery than in his home with his family. That takes a lot of forgiving. She ought to know that you can never become artistic merely by attending art galleries or reading about art."

"So Babbitt is apt to spoil his wife and permit himself to be dragged to the art shops, the high-brow play or the high-class concert, which is got and never will be his milieu."

"But it is in all the smoking cars of the trains in all states that you find the real Babbitt. How he talks! He will talk about the weather, golf, or his motor car, and I am not sure as to whether conversation about a motor car cannot be made as interesting as any chat about a literary or painting shop. A bunch of novelists talking books or a gathering of artists talking color are no more interesting than Babbitt talking about his golf or his new car."

He Likes Babbitts "Therefore, when people sympathize with me for having to mix with such people to get material for my stories, their sympathy is wasted; it has been no toil for me to talk in the smoking cars with the Babbitts; in fact, I have liked it, and still do."

"If only Babbitt would not try to be humorous. The American nation is cursed with the tradition that it is humorous, whereas it is not. Everybody seems to think he must be funny. If Babbitt would only learn to say a plain 'no' or 'yes,' instead of 'I'll tell the cock-eyed world,' which isn't a bit funny. Yet they keep on saying it day after day."

"The tradition arose that we were a funny people through Mark Twain. Some of Mark Twain's earlier books, such as 'Huckleberry Finn' and his Mississippi stories, were naturally humorous writings; but when he became famous as a comedy writer, then his work deteriorated, because he felt he had to be funny at all costs, and nothing could be more forced and unnatural than the humor in 'Innocents Abroad' or 'The Yankee at the Court of King Arthur.'"

"We are really a humorless people, and there can be no greater tragedy than putting humor in the hands or mouths of the humorless."

Followers Carrying on Abrams' Experiments

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 1.—Dr. Albert Abrams, world-famous founder of the school of electronic medicine—the man who predicted his own passing almost to the day—is dead but his work is to go on. Announcement has just been made that the associates of the dead physician will continue his work, teaching the medical doctrine for which he fought for many years.

Work on the ten-story building started some time ago by Dr. Abrams, it was announced, will go on and when completed will house the College of Electronic Medicine, as planned by Dr. Abrams.

This man, who claimed he could tell just how long any one was going to live, lived up to his claim by forecasting his own death three years ago. At that time he said he would die in the first half of the first month of the year 1924.

Dr. Abrams, who was 61 years old, died after a career which brought him numerous friends and enemies. Thousands of persons almost worshipped him, while from many sides he was the object of bitter attacks because of his beliefs.

Glendale Theatre's Program Is Spicy Variety in its fullest sense of the word is offered by the five standard vaudeville acts which are to be seen at the Glendale theatre today and tomorrow. The most novel, perhaps, is Rubye Latham, an athletic girl who works on a web instead of the commonplace trapeze. She is ably assisted by an acrobat.

The Mel-o-dee Saxophone four are a quartet of musicians who score with popular, classical and jazz numbers, although the saxophone music is not so uncommon as it was ten years ago. "Oh Henry" is the title of the singing, dancing and talking act presented by Elliott and Burke who are popular favorites on the big time circuit.

Eddie Russell, who has a pleasing personality, limber legs and a line of talk and some new tricks is one who is guaranteed to please. The Tropical Trio with a flashy wardrobe and Hawaiian dancing complete the program.

THREE A LEAGUE RACE GROWS KEEN

Shell Oil Look Like Winners, White Sox Battle to Land in Money

The Triple A league race is entering the home stretch and all managers are now exerting themselves to the utmost in an effort to be in the win, place and show class.

Josh Clarke's Shell Oilers appear to be the safe bet, although Sawtelle is still dangerous. The Dutchmen win a game by default from Anaheim next Sunday and will entertain the St. Louis Giants at Signal Hill. Larry Arnold's crew will have a win chalked up to their credit from the defunct Wilmington crew and will play Universal City.

Two Games Sunday

In the two league games the White Sox will journey to Torrance to battle Union Tool and San Pedro will endeavor to prove a rival attraction to the Culver City race track by pastimeing at Palms.

With Ken Douglas pitching and Tony Rego, who goes to the Browns this year, receiving, a good crowd is expected to turn out to watch the performance. Mike Donlin's crew wants to win Sunday as every game counts now if they expect to cut in on the melon to be divided at the end of the season.

STANFORD HOPES TO TAME BEARS

Baseball, Tennis, Swimming Events, As Well as Gym Contests Are on Card

PALO ALTO, Feb. 1.—While interest of the student body is centered on the annual clash of the California-Stanford track squads set for April 26, other branches of sport in which these two traditional rivals meet will come in for their attention this spring.

The baseball season is starting out well for the Cardinals, and when the record at the end of the season is scanned, local supporters hope to find therein a defeat of the Blue and Gold. The final game in the California-Stanford series will be staged April 26 at Stanford, after the track meet. The freshmen will play a third game, if it be necessary, on April 25 at Stanford, the day before the track stars "do their stuff."

The Cardinal swimmers and divers meet the Blue and Gold at the Olympic club pool in San Francisco on February 20. Stanford has a wonderful swimming team and hopes to see her victory of 1923 repeated.

The fencing and gymnasium teams are busy this winter and a good account is expected from them. Paul Wilbur, son of Chief Justice Wilbur and nephew of Ray Lyman Wilbur, president of Stanford University, is captain of the gymnasium team.

Casesy Win From Scots in Bowling Schedule of Fraternal League

In the Fraternal league matches on the Recreation alleys last night the Modern Woodmen made a clean sweep of the three games with the Odd Fellows and the K. C. No. 1 won two out of three from the Scots. Whitaker of the Scots rolled the high game of the evening—191.

Tonight the K. C. No. 2 meet the K. P.'s and the American Legion team rolls the Masons.

BALL AND GOLF DON'T MIX WELL

San Francisco Seals May Be Kept Away From Links If Owner Has Way

By COPELAND C. BURG
For International News Service.

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 1.—No more golf playing! That may be the edict members of the San Francisco club of the Pacific Coast baseball league will face.

If George A. Putnam, one of the owners of the Seals, has his way, the no-golf rule will go into effect at once and be in vogue all around the year. Charles S. Strub and C. F. Graham, the two other club owners, however, like to swing their clubs and oppose Putnam in his scheme to put golf off the sport menu of the Seals.

"Why have McGraw and Ty Cobb banned golf," is the challenge of Putnam, who declares that the game itself may be beneficial but charges there is too much attention given to it.

Too Much Talk

"There's too much golf talk," says Putnam. "Ball players who play their golf think and talk too much about golf and not enough about baseball. It's stymies and hazards now in the club house instead of home plate thefts and Texas leaguers."

California golf courses have been approved by Arthur Havers, British open champion, and James Ockenden, crack British player and open champion of France, who have been playing at various clubs up and down the coast. All of the California courses he has been praised by the visitors, who pronounce western greens extremely sporty.

Havers Near Perfect

Johnny McHugh, California champion, says that of all the golfers he has seen, Arthur Havers plays all his shots with perfect ease and grace. The Briton weighs about 200 pounds but he appears like a boy of half that weight when he swings.

Ockenden, according to McHugh, has every shot in his bag and gives a finished play to each.

DOGS LEAD HUMANS

As compared with human population the dogs have it in the Canadian Northwest. It is reckoned that in the fur and gold countries there are three dogs to every human. No other animal can compete with the dog as a beast of burden over the snow fields. In the United States, it is said there are 7,000,000 dogs.

Of The Evening News Staff.

With the advent of the White Sox into Glendale's baseball firmament, the K. C. team, which before the formation of the Triple A league upheld the honor of the city on the diamond, has dropped out of the spotlight, but they have been plugging along all winter, and playing at home when the White Sox were on the road, have put on some mighty fine exhibitions of baseball and are well up in the running of the San Fernando Valley league.

At the first of the season they did not do so well, but Harry Manush, of Omaha, was appointed captain a couple of months ago and since then they have been going great guns. They have some of the heaviest hitters in the minor ranks of Southern California, and in Slim Harris and Doc Heidler boast a brace of twirlers that more than hold their own.

Their next appearance on the San Fernando lot will be next Sunday when they tackle Post No. 8 of the American Legion from Los Angeles. The visitors have three men in their lineup who are scheduled for a tryout with fast company this spring, especially Pico, the famous outfielder. Manush will be on hand to watch this youngster perform.

The Caseys, in anticipation of a hard game, will present their strongest hitting strength. Slim Harris will occupy the other outfield position along with Manush and Doll. M. Doll will play first, Samset second, H. Doll third, and Fruhlind third. Walt Heidler will do the hurling and Peroni will receive.

In their last encounter these two teams battled to a 3-3 tie, and this has all the appearances of being a grudge game. The Legionnaires are coming from Los Angeles in force, and are planning to bring along a band, if possible. The game will be called at 2:15 o'clock.

The Sox are playing at Torrance, so there will be no counter attraction in Glendale.

Canada's Hockey Team Trims British Foes

CHAMONIX, Feb. 1.—Giving a display of splendid team work and dazzling shooting, Canada easily defeated England at hockey in the Olympic winter sports today. Final score was 13 to 2, the Canadians showing a vast superiority from the opening whistle. Their total today indicated a strenuous time when Canada and the United States meet, the Americans scoring a 11 to 0 victory over the British yesterday.

Johnny Carlton of Hanover, N. H., famous as a ski jumper at Dartmouth college several years ago, was painfully injured in a fall on the Olympic ski jumper today, badly spraining his left arm and having his left eye completely closed. Carlton is now an American Rhodes scholar at Oxford.

MULDOON NAMED AS BOXING CZAR

Fight Game to Take on New Lease of Life Under New Commissioner

By DAVIS J. WALSH
For International News Service.

NEW YORK, Feb. 1.—Reappointment of William Muldoon to the New York state athletic commission was greeted in boxing circles today as a forerunner of the following developments, named in the order of their importance:

- 1—A new lease of life for boxing in New York.
- 2—The absolute divorce of boxing and politics for the first time since the modern game was made legal.
- 3—The return of Muldoon, once known as the Czar of boxing, to greater power than he ever knew.
- 4—The elimination of opposition to Tex Rickard as supreme promoter of boxing.

Will Accept Post

When informed of his reappointment by Governor Smith, Muldoon would give no indication of what his program might be beyond indicating that he would accept the post with due alacrity.

Muldoon, it was pointed out, is free from politics, originally appointed to office by a Republican governor, Nathan Miller. His reinstatement by a Democratic governor leaves him free to pursue any course he may elect, unhampered by political affiliations, it was declared.

The appointment of James Farley, Democrat, and the coincident resignation of William McCormack, personal friend of the governor, as chairman of the license committee, is said to have indicated further the formation of a non-partisan body. Boxing and politics are to go their separate ways, it is contended, for the first time since the nineties.

Will Hold Power

That Muldoon will be returned to his former high estate, instead of merely accepting a place as commissioner, also was predicted. He is the only practical boxing man now connected with the commission in any way. George W. Brower, the hold-over, being a lawyer, McCormack, in fact, was the only man in authority to dispute Muldoon's reign in the old days and it is believed to be unlikely that the new license committee chairman will be given the official backing with which McCormack is favored.

IRISH OLYMPIC TO BE HELD IN 1924

Aonach Tailteann, Old Gaelic Name, Traced to Years Before Christianity

By LUTHER A. HUSTON
For International News Service.

LONDON, Feb. 1.—Back in the days when the world was young the Irish used to stop fighting once a year and assemble on the plains of Meath to indulge in such athletic pastimes as were then popular. The practice persisted for a score of centuries until the Normans wandered across the Irish Sea and disarranged the schedule. Now a full-blown movement for revival of the ancient games is under way, with every prospect that the first tournament in more than 1,000 years will be held in August.

The games, which are virtually the Irish Olympiad, were known in ancient times by the quaint Gaelic name of Aonach Tailteann. The name has been revived for the games that are to be held this year.

To get back to the origin of Aonach Tailteann necessitates delving into the prehistoric past. According to J. J. Walsh, Postmaster-General of the Aonach Tailteann, there are two versions of its beginnings. One is that it was established by Lugh-of-the-Long-Arm in the year 2,333 of the Age of the World. The other version fixes its inauguration in the year 632 B. C. It is historic fact, Walsh asserts, that the games were held uninterruptedly for seven centuries before Christ and eleven centuries afterward.

Honored Queen

Originally the games were held in honor of Queen Tailte, and the scene always was around her burial mound at Teltown, County Meath. It is on this ancient plain that the 1924 revival of the games will be staged. The original games always saw a gathering of the chiefs of the Irish clans, and the sports included chariot races, horse races, running, jumping, swimming, wrestling, lance and spear throwing and other robust pastimes.

Plans for the revival of Aonach Tailteann have been discussed many times, but it was not until recent years that a definite, organized movement was launched. It was at first planned to hold the games in 1922, but the organization at that time had not been perfected sufficiently to warrant the venture.

The intervening period, according to Walsh, has been spent in organization work that has reached the stage where it is assured there will not be further postponement. Arrangements for the accommodation of the athletes who will participate and the spectators who will come have been made, and Ireland expects to entertain royally all those who attend Aonach Tailteann.

Wide Appeal

It is expected that many athletes from many nations will compete. A member of the committee recently toured Canada and the United States and reported that he was enthusiastically received in New York, Chicago, Detroit, Kansas City, San Francisco, Seattle and many cities throughout Canada. Besides contingents from the United States and Canada, participants are expected from Australia, South Africa, Argentina, Scotland, England and Wales. The games are open to men of Irish blood, no matter what part of the world they may be living in.

One factor that is expected to contribute to the success of Aonach Tailteann is the Olympic games that are to be held in Paris this year. Many athletes from the United States and elsewhere who participate in the Paris games are expected to enter the Irish tournament also, and probably many visitors to the Olympics will witness the Tailteann revival.

Announcement of the exact dates for the games and the program of events is expected shortly.

Olympic Wrestling Tryouts Are Stated

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Feb. 1.—Sectional try-outs for the American Olympic wrestling team, to represent the United States at Paris this summer, will be held in the following nineteen cities, according to an announcement issued here by C. W. Streit, Jr., chairman of the American Olympic Wrestling Committee:

Chicago (Greek Olympic Athletic Club); Buffalo (Buffalo Athletic Club); Cambridge, Mass. (Cambridge Y. M. C. A.); Salt Lake City (Deseret Gymnasium); Spokane (Spokane Athletic Club); Gary (Gary Y. M. C. A.); Kansas City (Kansas City Athletic Club).

Bethlehem, Pa. (Lehigh University); Iowa City (University of Iowa); Birmingham (Birmingham Athletic Club); New Orleans, San Francisco, Los Angeles, Denver, New York City, Detroit, Cincinnati, Baltimore and either Lexington or Norfolk. No definite arrangements with any particular club have been made in the nine latter cities.

The A. A. U. rules will govern Olympic tryouts. Streit declared "but the International Federation Wrestling weights will be used in our tryouts, both preliminary and final."

"I believe America should have societies."

ONE ADVT. SELLS HOUSE PROPERTY

Hart Realty Co. Close Deal
In Quick Time by Aid Of Evening News

L. A. Hart of the Hart Realty company, 205 West Broadway, is firmly convinced of the drawing power of Glendale Evening News advertising. Recently he placed an ad in the classified columns, offering a house for sale. The next morning he sold the house.

"To sell a house by means of one insertion of a classified advertisement I consider no small achievement," says Mr. Hart. "It is gratifying to know that we have at our disposal such an effective ally in the real estate business."

Predicts Big Year
Mr. Hart has great faith in the future of Glendale and believes 1924 is going to be the biggest year of growth and development
the city has yet enjoyed. He has been a Glendalian for seven years,
the last four of which he has been engaged in the real estate business.

W. H. Barnes, partner of L. A.
Hart in the Hart Realty company,
is also an old-time Glendalian,
having resided here for the past five years, which is long enough to have seen the city grow from a population of 10,000 to over 50,000.

LA CRESCENTA SCOUT CHIEFS IN EXECUTIVE MEET

Council For Verdugo Hills
District In Session
At La Crescenta

By MARY B. DARROW
Of The Evening News Staff.

A meeting of the executive board of the Boy Scouts of Glendale met in this community yesterday, the Glendalians being H.
R. Cheeseman, who is the executive of the Verdugo Hills district;
Roy L. Kent; A. R. Eastman, president Glendale State bank; Benjamin Robison; George Bentley, of the Bentley Lumber company; C. A. Haskins, A. C. Cox,
C. J. Klatt and Mary B. Darrow, of La Crescenta, and J. A. Brown of Montrose. Others who had been invited were unable to attend.

The meeting was opened by Mr.
Cheeseman, who very graphically illustrated his talk with a well-defined chart. In speaking of the Boy Scout movement, Mr. Cheeseman said: "It is THE organization that promotes good fellowship, produces action and results from boys of the gang age. The first, second and third tests the boys must take give them a feeling of fellowship and manhood before they have really reached that age,
a feeling of community welfare and co-operation without making sissies' of the boys."

The Boy Scouts' charter has the support of the United States Congress behind it, and is on the same footing as the Red Cross. The head office of the Regions department is in New York City, there being twelve districts in the United States, this center being in No. 12
district, which includes Arizona, Utah, Nevada and California.

Paid Executives

Each council for organizing employs but one paid executive, who, however, devotes all of his time to the work, while the remainder of the council is made up of men full of the community pride and spirit
so needed in any village, town or country. In the Verdugo Hills district the committees are to help
the boys organize, to stand back of all their movements, show them
how to increase their membership;
in fact, be fathers to the Scouts.

Too, the council must talk the troop problems over with the boys, and are also to represent their particular district at a council meeting, so that there will be feeling it is a chosen few, in Glendale or any other place, who are running things, each district will send a representative to vote on important questions.

Burbank has a council district,
with acting heads, department leaders, training school, camping department, etc. It is felt there is room here for another troop, as there are many new boys in the valley, and many of the youngsters who have lived here for some time are now the proper age for joining.

Mr. Cheeseman read the constitution drawn up for this district, should the men be willing to work for and with the boys.

Kent Makes Address

An interesting talk was given by Roy L. Kent, in which he said the Boy Scouts of America was the largest organization of its kind in the world, being one-half million strong. It is also growing in numbers in practically every country in the world. Mr. Kent had the pleasure last year of attending the national conference, held in Bear Mountain, on the Hudson. All Glendalians know what a daddy to Scouting Mr.
Kent has been working for the boys for the past seven years.

Mr. Kent stated that Boy Scouting is not on trial any more, but stands on its own merits, being helpful to the boys, thousands of whom are joining the organization every month. California has the honor of the twelfth regional district, in that every council has a paid executive. The men of Glendale are behind every movement of the scouts, Mr. Eastman, president of the Glendale State bank, being president of the council last year, and putting over several big projects of great interest and help to the Scouts of this district.

Two years ago Roy L. Kent organized a class of first-class Scouting, and since then the Scouts of Glendale have worked with untiring zeal to build up their troops and patrol.

The principal work the men of the district need to do, to help the Scouts, is plan finance campaigns;
also the chairman of a district council, no matter how small it may be, will have as much of a voice in the council as a large district. Mr. Cheeseman, while at Ventura, so fully organized the country north of us that he feels there is nothing further up there for him to do. So we of this district are very fortunate in being able to obtain such a man's services.

Tells Held On Boys

In presenting Mr. Eastman to the assembled company, Mr. Bennett told of the wonderful work done by him in the Scout work, while Mr. Eastman, speaking for himself, said: "Scouting is very near and dear to me, as I have a boy in the work, and he says he would give up everything else if he had to, but not his Scout work." Mr. Eastman further said Mr. Kent had thoroughly covered the ground, as had Mr. Cheeseman, and that he would like to have the latter read the constitution for the proposed La Crescenta-Montrose district. After listening to this, James Brown, president of the Montrose Chamber of Commerce, moved the constitution be adopted, which motion, being seconded by Benjamin Robison of Glendale, was carried with a full vote.

Reference at this time was made to the eighty acres the Rotary club has purchased in Haynes canyon, where the Boy Scouts will be able to camp and have a swimming pool.

The duties of the chairman were given at this time, being as follows: (1) meet once a month and report; (2) preside at the district council; (3) attend meetings of the Verdugo Hills council once every three months.
Benjamin Robison was elected chairman of the district of Montrose-La Crescenta; vice-chairman,
James Brown of Montrose; H. R.
Cheeseman, secretary; A. V. Adkins, treasurer; A. C. Cox, camping; Court of Honor, C. A. Haskins; chairman leadership on organization, Mark Collins; Ben Robison, Jr., District Scout council.

Altogether, the meeting was a splendid affair, much business being carried on in a very short time. Thanks were given George Bentley of Bentley Lumber company for hauling the camping outfits to and from camp last year.
No doubt Mr. Bentley's trucks will be at the disposal of the Scouts again this year, if needed.

With these men of ability behind the Scouts of the Verdugo Hills district, it is felt the organization will grow remarkably, and no doubt, will be the best in California.

Elmer Bennett Dies

Friends of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer
T. Bennett will be shocked to learn of his death, which occurred a few hours after they had moved to Riverside. During the short time Mrs. Bennett lived here she had become identified with the business and club world in the community, having bought the La Crescenta Pharmacy about two months after arriving here. Mrs.
Bennett was also known for her great artistic ability, being elected chairman of the decorating committee of the Women's club, and her decorations were always commended on as being most noticeable of any used here.

Mr. Bennett was born in Boston, being taken to reside in Europe at an early age, as his mother was a concert pianist of no mean note. Returning to this country when a young man, Mr. Bennett freelanced on the different New York papers, traveling in the Antipodes and Tropics at intervals.
Returning to America, he took up architecture, and during the war composed numerous Red Cross songs. Mr. Bennett was, previous to the breakdown which caused his death, purchasing agent for the Lasky Studios.

Naturalist Opens New Field to Bird Lovers

quent distortion of form. The very grandeur of mountains lies in their height, mass, strength and sky-lines, and none of these is seen so well from the peak as from the valley. The mountains of California lie enchanted under the wand of the sunlight.

Suddenly the silence is broken
by the song of the high-toned artist, the hermit thrush, or the obligato accompanist, the little wren-tit. Many, many times as I was following a deep fissure in the mountains the song of the grossbeak would come down to me from a spot far up the steep mountain-side, a little cascade of song, mingling with the cascades of the brook.

Sometimes the songs of our mountain warblers and towhees are interrupted by the sudden arrival of a jay, the blue-fronted jay of the high Sierras. He's a saucy sort of an individual, striking in color, but a serious sort of species. He loves acorns, pine seeds and a variety of animal and vegetable matter. His cousin, the California jay, finds the oaks, sycamores and holly bushes in our canyons a favorite retreat. It is estimated that there are 260,000 jays in our canyons. They are not protected by law, for the jay has been known to commit overt acts
—he is one of our "bandit birds,"
a robber, murderer and a thief.
The tiny sparrows, the wrens and the warblers are frightened nearly to death when he bursts in upon them unannounced. He robs their nests of eggs and murders their young, and yet he is a jolly fellow, bold and daring, and seems to enjoy life to the full.

Far up the steep mountainside one might observe soaring overhead the turkey vulture, or buzzard. He is an industrious scavenger and a "self-appointed board of health." The golden eagle, the red-tail hawk and the sharp-shinned hawk are likely to be seen. "The little sharp-shinned hawk is the boldest fellow for his inches that wears feathers," says

Dr. A. K. Fisher of the Biological Survey, Washington, D. C., "and a fierce defender of his home!" Although destructive in his habits, he loves the deep forests and lofty mountain peaks. I marvel at his wonderful strength, skill and ingenuity. All hawks are masters of aerial navigation and they are sure of themselves in any kind of weather.

Should Protect Owls

When night draws her curtain over the canyons and ravines, then listen for the terrifying hoot of the Western horned owl, or the screach of the little gray owl, the screach owl of the Sierra Nevada times. He is the world's champion mouse destroyer and should be rigidly protected. The big horned owl is destructive at times. I have found the remains of sixty-eight rats under the nesting site of a pair of these owls, and the feathers of song birds and poultry.

John Muir mentions in one of his essays a bird that every lover of the great out-of-doors should know. A bird of the waterfalls and streams of the mountains of California—the water ouzel.
"What is it? Oh, you never saw the like," they seem to be saying. In his rocky home amidst foaming waters he seldom sees a gun, and of all the singers, says Muir, "I like him the best." He is a plainly dressed little bird, about the size of a robin, with
